ASKS INDUSTRY TO RECOGNIZE 'CLOSED SHOP'

CIO Calls Plan 'Practical Means' of Assuring Good Relations.

MURRAY OPENS SESSION

Begins Second Term at Meet In Detroit; Policy Group Draft Reply to FDR.

BULLETIN

DETROIT —(U.P.)— A resolution approved by the congress of industrial relations charged today that the federal bureau of investigation "offers serious danger" of becoming an organization "similar to the Nazi Gestapo." The convention protested the use of FBI agents "to oppress or harass any labor elements in the pursuit of their legitimate activities."

(By United Press)

DETROIT—The Congress of Industrial Organizations called upon the nation's employers today to accept the union shop in the interests of industrial harmony.

Meeting in a brief final session to clean up resolutions proposed at their fourth annual convention, the 500 CIO delegates declared that the union shop offered "a practical means" of assuring constructive relations between management and workers.

President Philip Murray opened the session, embarking on his second term as CIO head after a unanimous election yesterday. Adjournment was expected by midday.

The union shop proposal did not mention the present captive coal mine dispute in which the United Mine Workers have struck to enforce a closed shop demand, but it was intended, by wording, to cover every phase of industrial employment.

A second resolution called upon the navy, maritime commission, office of production management and the national labor relations board to abrogate "collusive contracts" with AFL building and metal trades workers on the Pacific coast and call for elections at shipyards affected by the stabilization pacts.

These included the Consolidated

THREE ACCUSED

Prosecutor Names Three After Sheriff's Raid on Park.

Three of the six persons arrested Tuesday night by Sheriff Frank E. Robinson in a raid on Tillman's park north of Mansfield were named today in charges accusing them of operating a place where lewd shows are presented and transporting women here from Cleveland to participate in the shows.

Named in the charges filed in common pleas court were James H. Crouch, 62, Mansfield R. D. 1, said to be the proprietor of the club at the park; Odie Milliner, 37, Mansfield, and Mrs. Pearl Crouch, 38, Mansfield. All are colored.

Held in the county jail under $500 bond each as material witnesses were Mrs. Wanda Budd, 37, Cleveland, a white woman, and Mary L. Hamilton, 26, Toledo, colored. An 18-year-old colored girl from Toledo was released.

Warrants filed against the three Mansfielders were signed by Deputy Sheriff John Whitcomb who participated in the raid. Prosecutor Harold Lutz said today that no date has been set for arraignment of the trio before Judge C. H. Huston.

GAMELIN ILL

Germans Report Condition of French General Serious.

BERLIN —(INS)— The German News Agency DBN reported from Paris today that the condition of Maurice Gustave Gamelin, former commander-in-chief of the French army, is critical.

The report said Gamelin is at an unrevealed hospital to which he was removeed from Portalet fortress after suffering a breakdown. He was held at the fortress pending trial with other French leaders accused of leading France into war with Germany.

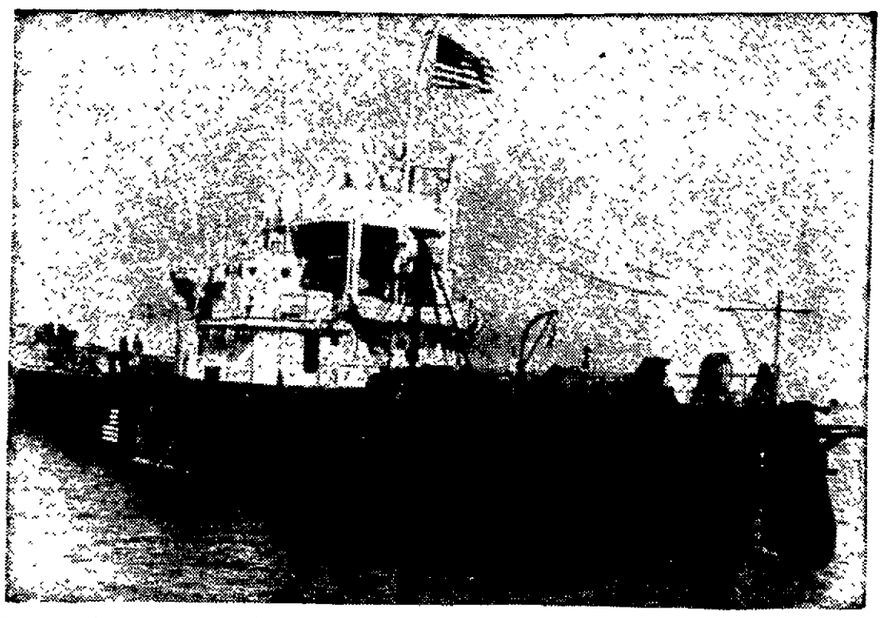
Two More Units Added to U. S. Naval Power



Here are two new units of American naval strength. At the top, the first picture released by the U. S. navy department of a full-scale merchant ship of the "sea otter" type. Radically different in construction, it can be built cheaply and quickly. At bottom, the navy's newest battlewagon, the 35,000-ton Indiana, slides down the ways at Newport News, Va. Launched six months ahead of schedule, it will be in service in less than a year.

FOURTH HUNTER HURT IN COUNTY

Mansfielder Shot In Leg While Hunting With Friend On Marion Road.

Shot in the leg yesterday while hunting rabbits along the Marion avenue road southwest of Mansfield, Marshall Long, 499 Lida street, became the fourth Richland county hunter to receive injuries since the hunting season opened last Saturday.

Long was not injured seriously, according to a report to Deputy Sheriff John Whitcomb, and was able to return home after receiving treatment at a physician's office as a preventative against tetanus.

Tony Schultz, 404 Newman street, a companion, told Whitcomb that he shot at a rabbit and some of the pellets struck Long in the leg. He said he did not realize Long was in the gun's range when he fired.

Calvin C. Ferrell, 47, Mansfield, was fatally injured last Saturday while hunting southwest of the city. I. E. Allmendinger, South Boulevards, suffered serious face and head injuries the opening day of the season while hunting near West Salem, and Robert Ray, 141 Oakenwaldt avenue, was shot in the chest and face last Monday.

Hunting accidents claimed the life of an Ashland county youth last week-end and at least a dozen others were injured during the past week in the Mansfield area. The pheasant season closes Nov. 30, but rabbit hunting will be permitted until Jan. 1.

DECLARES NAZI LOSS ENORMOUS

Turkish General Says German Machine 'Not So Good.'

ISTANBUL — (Delayed) — (AP) —A prominent Turkish general, back from an inspection of the Russian-German battlefront, was reported today to have described German losses as "enormous" and the general situation of the German war machine "not as good as it is represented to be."

The general was not identified. However, Generals Ali Fuad Erden and Hueseyn Erkilet inspected the German side of the front as guests of the German army less than a month ago and were received by Adolf Hitler at his field headquarters.

HURT AT GALION

Victim of Fist Blow During Scuffle In Hospital.

GALION—Omar Wallace, 22, was in Good Samaritan hospital, with undetermined injuries, said to be serious, after a scuffle with a friend in the downtown section early today.

Attending physicians could not be reached, but police reported that an x-ray, made shortly after the accident, showed a skull fracture.

Police said young Wallace and a friend, Willard Cochran, about the same age, had scuffled in front of a restaurant about 2:20 a. m. today and that a playful uppercut by Cochran had landed on Wallace's jaw. Wallace, it was said, fell backward, striking his head on the concrete walk.

He was taken to the office of Dr. M. E. Switzer and later to the hospital.

Mother Turns Gun On Self After Killing Infant Daughters.

CHICAGO —(INS)— A 30-year-old mother who shot and killed her two infant daughters as they lay in their cribs, herself was near death today.

The mother, Mrs. Annella Bergeron, shot herself yesterday after fatally wounding the two children, Brenda, 2½, and Annella, 16 months.

Soldiers Assert They'll Dig Coal At Army Pay Rate

CAMP FORREST, Tenn.—(AP)—Members of a field artillery battery at Camp Forrest today sent this telegram to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers union:

"In response to your statement that 'soldiers of the United States army won't dig coal,' we, the undersigned members of Battery C, 191st field artillery, 100 per cent strong, do hereby offer to dig coal at our present rate of pay and to donate the difference in that pay and the present average salary of a coal miner to the treasury of the United States for national defense."

The message was signed by 102 members of the battery, including 11 sergeants and 12 corporals.

Lewis, commenting earlier in the week upon the possibility that troops might be sent to take over the captive coal mines where the CIO union is on strike, had said "the army is not going to shoot our people and the soldiers are not going to mine coal."

134 Bushels Per Acre Wins Corn Honor for Farmer Here

Howard Kochenderfer, Butler township farmer, today was named Richland county's grand champion hybrid corn producer for the second consecutive year.

Competing with 10,000 farmers in 13 principal corn producing states, Kochenderfer grew an average of 134.05 bushels of corn per acre in a contest sponsored by the DeKalb Agricultural association in Illinois. He received a trophy in recognition of his ability as a corn grower.

His average was one of the highest in the nation and the best in the county. Other Richland countians who won prizes were W. H. Leppo, Mansfield; C. R. Sipe, Shelby, and Carl Cuppy and Virgil Cates of Shiloh.

Kochenderfer, who was harvesting some of his champion corn today, said he grew 27 acres this year on his 181-acre farm near Adario. His top yield last year was 119 bushels.

His yield per acre was two and half times the Richland county average of 54 bushels per acre. The national average is only 31.1 bushels per acre.

Hybrids, grown this year by scores of Richland county farmers, produce higher yields than ordinary varieties of corn and stand up better under drought conditions and in windstorms. Hybrid seed is produced by crossing two pure lines.

NAZIS CLAIM CAPTURE OF CAUCASUS GATE

Declare Motorized Forces Occupy Rostov-on-Don, Near Oil Fields.

END LONG BATTLE

City Important as Traffic And Manufacturing Center In South.

(By International News Service)

BERLIN — Occupation of Rostov-on-Don by German motorized forces and storm troopers was announced by the German high command today.

At the same time the German war communique reported fierce fighting between German forces and strong British armored units on a wide front in North Africa.

Capture of the strategic manufacturing city, known as the gateway to the Caucasus, appeared to have greatly increased the menace to the huge Russian oil-producing region south of Rostov.

The announcement said the city was captured after heavy fighting. Rostov has been the focal point of a German drive that has been in progress for a number of weeks.

The high command announcement regarding Rostov said:

"Motorized troops of the army and armed SS forces under command of Col. Gen. von Kleist after fierce fighting occupied the city of Rostov on the lower reaches of the Don river.

"Thus a trade and traffic center of particular importance to continuation of the campaign has fallen into our hands.

"In the operations leading to this success, air force units under command of Gen. Ritter von Graim participated prominently."

It was the second time that German troops have entered Rostov. The first occasion was on May 7 and 8, 1918, during the World war, when German forces marched into the city.

German authorities said that with occupation of Rostov one of the two railway lines leading from the Soviet Union proper into the Caucasus fell under German control.

They added the city is the cite of two of Russia's most important

OFF FOR GAME

135 Mansfielders on Special Train For Grid Contest.

A happy crowd of 135 Mansfielders boarded a special train this morning at the Pennsylvania railroad station to attend the Ohio State-Michigan football game this afternoon in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Leaving Mansfield at 9:30 a. m., they will arrive in Ann Arbor around noon, see the game and entrain again in time to arrive back in Mansfield at 9:40 p. m.

Despite the fact that the Buckeye squad is on the short end of betting odds to the highly touted Wolverines, Mansfielders appeared highly hopeful that Coach Paul Brown's men could spring an upset.

Starting in Akron, the train stopped along the route to pick up other fans besides the Mansfield crowd. This is the last game of the season for both teams.

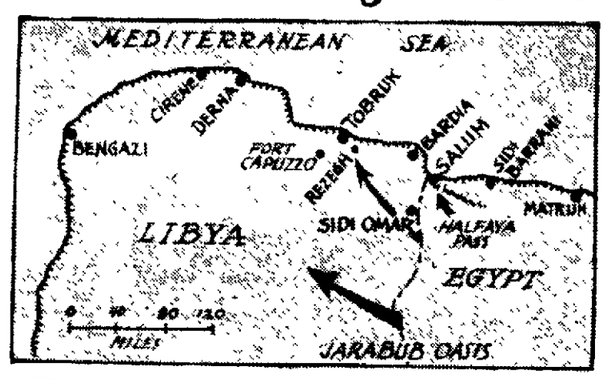
Paper Says U. S. Willing to Buy Argentine Grain.

BUENOS AIRES —(INS)— The newspaper Critica reported today that the United States has offered to buy all Argentina's surplus grain for the next three years on condition Argentina abstains from shipping foodstuffs of any description to Axis nations during that period.

Where British Register Gains



The map at the top shows the general strategy of the British offensive in Africa, with American-made tanks bearing the brunt of the battle. Today's dispatches said that the British had scored a decisive victory over German and Italian tank units, and that British forces had broken through from Tobruk, long besieged, and had joined their advancing comrades. At the bottom is General Erwin Rommell, commander of the German and Italian forces in Africa, whose armored strength has reportedly been cut in half by the hard-hitting British offensive. The Germans were said to be attempting to rush up reinforcements via Junkers transport planes from Crete.

Japan Balks at Giving Up Alliance With Axis

U. S. Diplomats, Insisting on 4 Major Principles, to Confer Today With British, Australian Statesmen.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today called a four-power conference to be held in his office to discuss the Far East situation. The conference will be held at 10:45 a. m. EST, with British, Australian and Netherlands diplomats.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Responsible quarters in Washington today disclosed that Japan's reluctance to renounce the Axis alliance and Secretary of State Hull's insistence on four fundamental American principles now constitute the main differences of opinion in the exploratory talks between the two countries.

With slow progress being made in the discussions because of these differences of opinion, the state department planned a joint consultation with the diplomatic representatives of Great Britain and Australia on the Far Eastern situation.

Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles made tentative arrangements to confer with British Ambassador Lord Halifax and Australian Minister Richard G. Casey.

Japan's unwillingness to renounce her alliance with the Axis powers is understood to be looming now as the main obstacle to an agreement.

The two Japanese envoys, Saburo Kurusu and Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura, are proving more adamant on this point than they did on the question of Japan's withdrawal from China, which appeared to be the main stumbling block during the early stages of the discussions.

While there are indications that

LEAPS TO DEATH IN HOME FIRE

Father, Brothers of Clerk Hurt As Flames Hit Residence.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Frank Dodich, jr., a 21-year-old grocery clerk, leaped to his death from his second floor bedroom window, and his father and four brothers were injured when fire swept their Brooklyn home today. Another Dodich boy, Anthony, 12, was listed by police as missing.

The fire broke out on the second floor of the three-story frame building following explosion of an oil stove.

Five members of the Dodich family were rushed to a hospital. Frank Dodich, sr., 47, suffered serious burns while rescuing his seven-year-old son, John, who also was severely burned.

PREDICTS TALKS

White House Hears Nazis Plan 'Economic Conference.'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The White House announced today it had heard Germany was planning a conference promising some "high sounding formula of economic rehabilitation and restoration of independence for all European nations."

England, the White House said, was excluded from the list of nations invited to the reported conference.

Stephen Early, White House press secretary, made the announcement and commented that the conference "should be discounted well ahead of time by people who really believe in democracy and oppose military domination not only of Europe but of the entire world."

He made the informal statement upon being questioned by reporters whether Hitler was proposing some form of "economic peace."

BRITISH PEN AXIS FORCES IN TWO TRAPS

Split Main German, Italian Mechanized Armies In North Africa.

OPTIMISM INCREASES

Chance to Sweep to Tunisia Borden Seen; U. S.-Made Equipment Praised.

(By United Press)

CAIRO—The British drove a tank wedge between the main Axis mechanized forces caught in a desert trap in Libya today and British imperials smashed their way out from besieged Tobruk in a drive to join the main invading force.

Official reports from the battlefront said that the British 8th army, using American tanks as a spearhead, had knocked out about half of the enemy mechanized strength in North Africa by splitting the German forces under Gen. Erwin Rommel and penning them in two traps.

Then, it was stated officially, British troops who have been under seven-months siege at Tobruk took the offensive and sallied out with tanks on Friday, with "the object of joining up with our troops holding Sidi Rezegh," south of Tobruk.

(Sidi Rezegh is about 10 miles south of Tobruk.)

It was added that Lieut. Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, directing the desert drive, has pushed his main armored forces between the principal German concentration in the east and a lesser enemy concentration west of Tobruk, with the apparent intention of chewing them up separately.

It was regarded as important that the greater German concentration was reported caught in the trap in the eastern sector of the desert battlefield, thus making its chances of breakout less favorable.

So sweeping was the British success—achieved in the greatest armored battle ever fought in Africa—that optimism mounted for a British sweep all the way to the Tunisian border as the opening gambit of a possible invasion of Sicily and Italy.

American tanks and planes were reported to have swept through

Three Children Suffocated When Pit Walls Collapse

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—It was forbidden fun but the boys and girls of the neighborhood couldn't resist the temptation to play in the abandoned gravel pit.

The pit, located near Loveland between the Twightwee road and the Loveland-Madeira road, was long and narrow with dangerous walls 15 feet deep.

Alberta Smith, 10; Leroy Bandy, jr., 11, and Betty Seward, 11, were playing at the bottom yesterday when the walls suddenly collapsed, burying and suffocating them beneath chunks of earth and loose gravel.

Three other children—Adabelle Perry, 10; her young brother, Jimmy, and Jean Garrett—narrowly escaped being in the pit at the same time. They were running to join the other three children when the wall nearest them fell in.

"It just fell," Adabelle said. "And the others were gone. I couldn't see anything but dust."

Adabelle and her two playmates screamed for help and frantic neighbors clawed at the dirt, first with their hands, and then with pick and shovel but it was too late.

Youth Killed As Gravel Loading Bin Collapses.

UHRICHSVILLE —(INS)— Fred Ward, 18, who was buried under tons of sand when a post at a gravel pit loading bin collapsed at Gnadenhutten, west of Uhrichsville, last night, was dead today. Fifty men working in shifts recovered the body three hours later. Coroner D. M. Ceramella said death was due to suffocation.

Read About Bricks, Sleigh-Bells

DID you ever bother to wonder what became of the old paving bricks that were torn up for the resurfacing of West Fourth street?

Well, they have quite an interesting history. They're now part of the county's newly completed dog pound. The history of how the county got its new pound is something, too. You'll find both stories wrapped up in an illustrated feature in the Sunday edition of The News-Journal.

Or did you ever wonder what became of all the strings of sleigh-bells that used to jingle so merrily along the snowy thoroughfares of city and county several decades ago?

There's one Mansfielder who knows where a lot of them are, because he collects them. And along with his story the Sunday edition traces an unusual development that grew out of a News-Journal feature on a local lock collection. To it has been added locks from the stock of the late Harry Houdini, magician.

Whether or not you visited the art exhibit at the library this week, you'll enjoy a visit to the studio of two Mansfield artists tomorrow in the second of a series of articles on art in the city.

With labor troubles in the United States literally stealing the headlines from news of the war, most timely is the profile of CIO czar John L. Lewis presented by Washington writers Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen in their Sunday "Merry-Go-Round. Told in their study is the secret of Lewis' power and a hint on the outcome of the present struggle between Lewis and the government.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—I don't know how much, if any, of our settlement with Mexico is to come out of lease-lend money. Perhaps none.

Johnson

But of course the whole result is one of an attempt to buy the good-will of a neighboring republic in the fight against Hitler, in which attempt we give practically everything, including our principle that expropriation without compensation is confiscation which we hitherto have refused to concede.

It is mentioned here only incidentally as a sample of our policy under actual lease-lend. The billions that we have appropriated for this purpose were with the understanding that they were to be used to arm and sustain the "peace-loving governments" who were fighting the "aggressors" in the interests of "democracy." That was before we took on bloody Joe Stalin, the chief aggressor and enemy of democracy as an ally. Now lease-lend seems to be expanded to include anybody who is fighting Hitler.

This is quite understandable but it raises a pertinent question. Is lease-lend a military project or sort of carte blanche to our government to spend all the money there is for any political purpose whatever?

Should it be handled by politicians, diplomats, social workers and economists? Or is the basic consideration one of how much of this money goes where it will do the most good in matters of purely military strategy? It seems to me that at least the primary consideration is military but there is precious little military talent or experience being used in the administration of those billions.

That great strategist, Harry Hopkins, who has spent more of the people's money than any other individual since the beginning of time and with less result is the lease-lend Poo-Bah, and, if there is a competent soldier in his retinue, I cannot for the moment recall his name.

Surely the situation now is not a far cry from the way in which some WPA projects were parcelled out. If a certain country is showing a slight weakness in support of our objectives a few tens of millions may be thrown that way. Similarly, if a South American good neighbor begins to flirt with the nazis, it may suddenly find itself the recipient of several hundred millions of dollars of this, that, or the other, which it has been seeking. If it is demonstrating a good resistance to Hitler, it may get tanks or aeroplanes in addition to other such favors. Thus the process of international log-rolling continues without much central planning, without uniform guidance and with almost total disregard for the obvious and simple fact that if we are to beat Hitler, it must be done by a well-balanced program based on military expediency.

We have long had in this country an almost neglected group of experts called the army and navy munitions board. It is an agency equipped to make decisions as to where our industrial military production will do the most good.

In our setup today, its voice is an almost neglected whisper at the counsel tables where it is drowned out by the clamor of the diplomats the politicians, the cultural experts and the new tribe of international Do-Gooders who are out to remake the world with American billions when the war is over.

HOUSE LABOR BLOC FORMS ON PRICE CONTROL

Congressmen Get Ready to Battle Question of Wage Fixing.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Formation of a closely-knit "labor bloc" was begun informally today as the house prepared for opening of a battle over price-control legislation on Monday, with demands for an all-inclusive price regulation bill rising.

The issue will be thrust squarely before the house under a bill proposed by Rep. Gore ,(D) Tenn., as a substitute for the Steagall price-control bill reported by the banking committee.

A three-way battle was forecast over clashing types of measures to control prices and halt inflation. They are:

1. The Steagall bill, generally following selective price control plan favored by administration, but omitting what the administration terms essential features. Contains a farm parity formula which, it is estimated, would boost farm prices 30 per cent.

2. Gore bill, following in many respects the plan proposed by Bernard Baruch, chairman of the world war industries board, for fixing prices on wages, rents, farm products and all commodities.

3. Administation plan, which would confer vast power to fix prices, but not including wages. Provides for licensing of firms, and power for the government to buy and sell commodities as a means of stabilizing prices, features which the banking committee omitted from its bill.

With congress aroused over the labor situation, Gore was confident of strong support for fixing of wages. Members who have led in labor legislation fights dissented.

"We are closely watching progress of the legislation," Said Rep. Healey (D) Mass., a leader of congressional labor forces. "I am pretty much convinced that the majority will decide that they are treading treacherous waters when they seek to control wages."

"All we will stand for is a statement of policy on wage control," said Rep. Kopplemann (D) Conn. "You just can't put wage control in a bill."

DETAILS STORY OF CRASH THAT TOOK 24 LIVES

Man Admits Planning Wreck For Robbery In West Two Years Ago.

(By United Press)

SUSANVILLE, Cal. — Authorities believed today that they had the hottest suspect yet in the wrecking of the streamliner "City of San Francisco" two years ago with a loss of 24 lives.

They had a "detailed confession," they said, from Clarence Alexandra, 24, of Cleon Springs, Okla., a railroad section hand.

Police and special agents throughout the west have received many "confessions" from cranks since the fast train was deliberately wrecked near Harney, Nev., on Aug. 12, 1939, but Alexander's statement looked authentic, authorities said, and showed only a few minor discrepancies with known facts.

They took him into Harney to go over the wreck scene and they hoped to know by tonight whether he actually had caused the death of 24 persons and the injury of 108.

Alexander, who Johnson described as "a tough looking guy," was arrested after a motorcycle accident Thursday night. Sheriff's officers said that he was a railroad worker. Johnson called in railroad and federal agents and directed the questioning toward the train disaster. After 20 hours of gruelling examination, Alexander blurted out the "confession."

"I'm glad to get this off my chest; maybe I can get some sleep nights now," he said.

Alexander said he was broke and conceived of wrecking a train to rob the passengers during the confusion.

He rode the rods on many lines picking out a likely spot, he said, before he found the Humboldt river crossing near Harney.

He stole tools from a shed and pried loose a section of track. Then hid across the river to await the wreck. He saw the fast train hit the loose rail and hurtle into the shallow creek bed, 13 of its 17 cars smashing into wreckage.

"When I heard the moaning and screaming of the passengers," Johnson quoted his confession, "I was scared, and I caught a freight train east."

He has been hiding out since, he said, getting occasional employment as a section hand.

BROADWAY

Thanksgiving on Broadway.

ON BROADWAY, as you know, there are two kinds of turkeys: The kind on the blue plate dinner at Lindy's and the kind that is played in three acts at the Nora Bayes. And because of the plenitude of the former and the scarcity of the latter, the Stem celebrated Thanksgiving with hearty sentiment this year.

Broadway can be thankful for: The richness of a season that sees the names of Maurice Evans, Helen Hayes, Ethel Barrymore and Gertrude Lawrence on the marquees, and the names of Noel Coward, Maxwell Anderson, George S. Kaufman, Edna Feber, Moss Hart and Lillian Hellman in the theater program.

For the bright synthetic prosperity manufactured by the defense era and the resultant avalanche of dollars piling up in box office cash drawers and night club cash registers. . . . For the delicious "Here Comes Mr. Jordan" and the heart-moving "How Green Was My Valley" and the exciting "The Maltese Falcon"... For the settlement of the ASCAP-networks war, and the return of Gershwin and Youmans and Kern to the ears of the nation.

BUS HITS PILLAR

NEW YORK—(INS)—Sixteen persons today were recovering from injuries suffered yesterday when a Bronx-Pelham Bay bus crashed into an "L" pillar as its driver swerved to avoid hitting an automobile.

GIRL DESCRIBES ABDUCTION RIDE

Tells of Robberies After Arrest of Suspects Loosens Tongue.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A fear of reprisals lifted by arrest of three robbery suspects, an 18-year-old girl recounted today how she was abducted and taken on a five-day crime tour of three states.

Detectives Ray Archer and William Hixon said they coaxed the story from Margaret Paudicz and were informed by Peoria, Ill., police that the trio named by Miss Paudicz was held there following a grocery hold-up.

Dubbed the "shoestring" bandits because they left victims trussed with shoestrings, two young men and a young woman are wanted here for hold-ups of the Uptown theater, the Aid Investment Discount company, and the Alhambra theater.

Archer and Hixon said Miss Paudicz, dark-eyed laundry worker, at first was afraid to talk for fear of threatened reprisals by her abductors but finally told this story:

She was going to work Oct. 25 when she was forced into an automobile at gunpoint. Her abductors drove to Indianapolis and St. Louis, robbing filling stations in both cities, and then to Omaha.

The three watched her constantly, but once during the trip through Indiana she contrived to scribble "notify the police" on a street car ticket and pass it to a hitch-hiker the party had picked up.

In Omaha, the men met another man and left the girl in an apartment. During the night Miss Paudicz slipped away, bought a bus ticket and returned home.

Archer and Hixon said the girl told them she knew about one of the Columbus holdups and apparently was abducted to "keep her quiet."

20 TICKETS FOR MOVIE WINNERS

Twenty admission tickets to the Ohio theater await the winners of the silhouette contests being sponsored by the Ohio theater jointly with The News-Journal in connection with William Powell's picture, "Shadow of the Thin Man," opening today at the Ohio.

Friday's issue of The Journal carried the "Shadow of the Thin Man," in puzzle-piece form and as this silhouette was complete in itself it will be the only one used in the contests. A previous announcement indicated that four silhouettes would be published before the contest would be complete.

Rules for the contest require that all contestants reassemble the pieces, paste them on a paper or cardboard and submit their entry to The News-Journal Contest Editor not later than Monday at 6 p. m.

LINKED TO ROBBERY

CINCINNATI —(INS)— One of two armed bandits who locked two officers of the Molitor Savings and Loan company into a clothes cupboard and fled with $800 late yesterday, was believed to have participated in a previous robbery of the same institution last July when $1,500 was taken.

BRIDE, 70, YOUTHFUL GROOM BEGIN HONEYMOON OF PRAYER

(By United Press)

FORT WORTH, Tex. — Theological student Raymond Vann, 25, and Lou Wilkins, 70, a Baptist missionary, began a honeymoon of prayer and fasting today.

They were joined yesterday in a marriage they said had been "made in heaven."

"Brothers," the bridegroom told the press, "Make this hilarious, if you please, but treat my wife fairly and don't write anything that a perfect lady wouldn't approve."

The press had been attracted to the wedding by the disproportionate ages shown on the marriage license issued yesterday morning. They discovered it was a romance which had reached its flower in the Baptist Theological Seminary where the bridegroom, soon to be ordained, studied, and his bride taught.

"We met 10 months ago," explained the demure white-haired bride, "and we ofter read the Bible together and discussed the scripture but not until 10 days ago did romance occur to us.

"Then he asked me to marry him and I was amazed but I agreed because I thought God wanted me to do it.

"We don't care what people think of this marriage because we know it was made in heaven."

The bridegroom is dark, tall virile in appearance, possessing the physique of an athlete. He was a track and tennis star at Conners college in Warne, Okla., graduated from the University of Oklahoma last year.

REACHES 5,519

Red Cross Reports 298 More Memberships Received.

Membership in Richland county chapter of the Red Cross climbed to 5,519 today as Mansfield Roll Call workers reported membership gains of 298 since yesterday and an increase in cash contributions that sent the total to $7,645.29.

Reports in the campaign so far have been based solely on statistics, according to Miss Lenore Van Gundia, executive secretary. No county reports have been received, Miss Van Gundia said, indicating that workers are waiting to complete their territory before notifying headquarters.

The county drive for 22,000 members started 12 days ago with 650 Roll Call workers seeking 15,800 memberships in Mansfield; 3,700 in Shelby, and 3,000 in the remainder of the county.

Memberships reported to Roll Call headquarters thus far have been largely based on local firms and organizations enlisting 100 per cent with the county chapter.

ILLNESS FATAL

John Wertman, 87, Succumbs at Ashland County Home.

ASHLAND—A native of Ashland county, John Wertman, 87, died at the Ashland county home early today after a lingering illness. There are no survivers.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday at the home. Burial will be in Nankin.

SNOW FORECAST

Weatherman Says Mercury Drop Due Tonight, Sunday.

Mansfield's weather picture is due to change rapidly in the next 24 hours, bringing snow and considerably colder Sunday, the forecast said today.

Today's bright, crisp weather will give way to rising temperatures and increasing cloudiness tonight, the forecast said. Rain is expected to change to snow late tonight.

Heavy frost that resembled snow coated the Richland county area this morning as the mercury fell to 23 degrees.

BOYS RESCUED

ALPINE, N. J.—(AP)—Two Bergenfield boys—William Nowak, 10, and Robert Zimmerman, 12—were back in their homes today thinking up some new adventure. The lads were rescued from a narrow ledge on the face of the Palisades last night after being stranded there for four hours.

Laff-a-Day

"That fellow must think he's a toe-dancer!"

ANOTHER CASE

Undulant Fever Strikes 7th Victim, Health Chief Says.

Richland county's undulant fever count went up another point today as Dr. William B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, announced that the seventh case this month had been reported to his office.

Wild said that the newest case is a resident of Mansfield. This is the third of the cases occuring in Mansfield. The other cases have been spread throughout the county. Two of the cases are attributed to direct contact of farmers with cows suffering from Bang's disease.

The sudden outbreak of the disease cannot be explained, according to Wild. Up until November no cases had been reported in this county. Only two were reported for all of 1940. The health commissioner said that the disease has been reported in increasing numbers, however, in all parts of the state.

CHARLES CONNOR DIES AT AGE 85

Former Lucas Resident, Father of Mansfielder, Succumbs.

Charles Connor, 85, father of Clarence Connor, Mansfield real estate dealer, died yesterday morning at his home in Doanville, O., following a heart attack. Mr. Connor resided on a farm near Lucas for ten years before moving to Doanville.

Says Londoners Prefer Bombing To Being Bored

CHICAGO —(INS)— Far from driving Londoners crazy as the Germans hoped, the bombings in England actually prevented mental breakdowns, according to Dr. Robert Dick Gillespie, a Royal Air Force psychiatrist.

Dr. Gillespie explained in Chicago that air raid shelters and community centers, new institutions which came with the bombings in England, fill a need for companionship and entertainment and thus prevent "psychoneurosis."

"We find many persons returning from the safe areas to the shelters of the large cities, declared: 'I'd rather be bombed than bored,'" he told a group of psychiatrists at Northwestern university.

Psychoneurotic victims are also rare among RAF flyers, according to Dr. Gillespie. In fact, he said, a mental hospital which was built to take care of any RAF flyers afflicted with mental troubles had to be closed because there were not enough patients.

ASKS INDUSTRY TO RECOGNIZE 'CLOSED SHOP'

CIO Calls Plan 'Practical Means' of Assuring Good Relations.

Steel company, California Shipbuilding company, and the Oregon Shipbuilding company, where the resolutions charged that CIO shipyard workers had suffered from discrimination "practiced by AFL agents who control hiring of all men."

Regional NLRB directors, the measure said, demonstrated "bias against CIO unions" in the shipyard districts.

Meanwhile, at Washington, the United Mine Workers' 200-man policy committee convened today to draft a reply to President Roosevelt's two-point emergency proposal for resumption of work in captive coal mines.

The committee, meeting against a backdrop of gunfire and violence in the fields, was expected to reject the proposal. UMW President John L. Lewis, who has "personally" rejected Mr. Roosevelt's suggestions, placed them before a closed meeting of the union officials.

UMW spokesmen said the reply would not be made public until after it is delivered to the White House, perhaps shortly after noon.

Union officials predicted unanimous support of Lewis' stand, pointing out that the committee on four previous occasions had endorsed his demand for a union shop for the 53,000 captive miners —the only point at issue.

The president offered two alternatives—freezing of the open shop status for duration of the emergency or submission of the union shop issue to arbitration. When it is rejected, the next move will be up to Mr. Roosevelt, who has declared it his "indisputable obligation" to safeguard the defense program from a prolonged coal stoppage.

He told his press conference yesterday that he plans no action until after he has received the committee's decision.

Three More Pickets Wounded At Mine

PITTSBURGH — (INS) — Three more pickets were wounded today as a lone blast of gunfire at bloody Edenborn heightened tension in the strike-locked Fayette county coal field where violence coupled with a request for help has failed to bring state police intervention.

The shotgun charge, which pickets said was fired from the H. C. Frick Coke company property, climaxed a night of grim expectancy. Some 400 United Mine Workers pickets ranged the road past the Edenborn mine where yesterday 10 pickets were wounded and about 40 others clustered at the "company store" a quarter mile distant.

But not until just before dawn did anything resembling violence occur. Then the single shot rang out. Pickets ducked, expecting a fusillade. Three of their number jerked with quick pain as pellets struck them.

Those wounded were treated at the scene. Reporters were chased from the scene by the pickets.

Ohio Strikes Spread To Two More Mines

ATHENS—(INS)—The sympathy strike of Ohio Commercial Miners spread to two more workings today.

At the Hocking mine of the Hocking Valley Coal company, 150 union miners left their jobs, as did 100 others at mine No. 24 at Redtown.

The latest walkouts raised to 1,350 the estimated number of Ohio miners on strike in sympathy with the idle employes of captive mines in other states. Five mines in Athens county were reported working today.

Will Report Rail Talk Failure To FDR

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Railway management and labor representatives report to President Roosevelt today on their inability to settle the wage dispute which threatens a nation-wide railroad strike of 1,150,000 workers Dec. 7.

The decision to report to the White House was reached after fact-to-face conversations, resumed at Mr. Roosevelt's request, ended abruptly last night.

President A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen said the meeting broke up when the management told labor representatives it would not budge from recommendations made by the president's special fact-finding board. He said this represented a "complete breakdown" in the talks and a union spokesman added that "it throws the dispute back into the president's lap."

Scene of Mine Frays Where 14 Were Wounded

Here is the H. C. Frick Coke company's Edenborn mine in Fayette county, Pa., where 11 more men were wounded in an outbreak of gun play between pickets and non-strikers following three shootings the day before at the same mine, which has been operating on a partial basis. Hundreds of shots were fired from the hillsides into the valley in which the mine is located. Most of the shots came from behind the building at left. None of the 11 shot in the latest outbreak was seriously injured.

BURN MORTGAGE AT ST. LUKE'S CHURCH DINNER

Special Program to Be Held Thursday; Services For Sunday Announced.

The completion of a $70,000 building program begun in 1922 will be celebrated by the congregation of St. Luke's Lutheran church when the church mortgage will be burned at a covered dish dinner, 6:30 p. m. Thursday in the church.

At tomorrow's morning worship service the last Sunday of Trinity will be observed with Rev. H. S. Garnes, pastor, preaching on "The Parable of the Ten Virgins."

Under the direction of Florence MacDonald, the choir will sing "O Clap Your Hands Together" by Turner. Luther league will meet at 7 p. m.

Lutherans to Hold Memorial Service

In a special service designed as a memorial to departed church members, Rev. G. E. Swoyer's sermon subject will be, "Those Wise As the Virgins," at the morning worship service in the First Lutheran church tomorrow.

Special music for the occasion will be provided by the robed choir, singing "On Eagle Wings," and Althea Lorentz singing the solo "Beside Still Waters," both written by Hamblen.

The Luther league will meet at 6:30 p. m. and evening services will be held at 7:30 p. m.

Meetings for next week are: Earnest Workers, 1 p. m. Monday; Luther league entertainment, 7:30 p. m. Tuesday; First district, all day Wednesday and Eighth district, all day Tuesday.

Pay Off Debt, Burn Note at Service

Fire and smoke will curl upward from the altar of St. Paul's Lutheran church at 10:30 a. m., tomorrow as the facsimile of a note, marking payment of a large part of the Decoration Fund debt is burned during the service of praise and thanksgiving.

Also during the service, 28 men will be commissioned to make an eight-day every-member visitation throughout the church.

Rev. H. L. Gilbert, pastor, will take "A Christian's Comparison of Values" for his sermon subject.

Weekly meetings include the missionary society, 2 p. m., Wednesday; Lutheranites, 7:30 p. m., Wednesday; and Thursday Nighters, 6:30 p. m., Thursday, for a supper and Farmers' party.

'Soul and Body,' Topic of Sermon

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in the Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The golden text is: "Rejoice the soul of thy servant: for unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul" (Psalms 86:4).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people" (Matthew 4:23).

Guest Pastor To Preach Sunday

In the absence of Rev. P. H. Saleste, Rev. M. M. Allbeck will fill the pulpit of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church tomorrow, preaching on "Virgins, Wise and Foolish," at the 10:30 a. m. service.

Meetings for the week include the annual bazaar and supper, sponsored by the St. John's Ladies' guild, 11 a. m. Wednesday; Ladies' Aid Society, 2 p. m. Tuesday; the official church board meeting, 7:30 p. m. Thursday and the regularly scheduled choir rehearsals and confirmation classes.

Speaks Sunday

President of Kalamazoo (Mich.) college, and a leader in the Northern Baptist convention, Dr. Paul L. Thompson, shown above, will speak at the Park Avenue Baptist church at 10:30 a. m., tomorrow on the subject "The World Emergency." He appears under the auspices of the Northern Baptist convention.

Pastor to Preach On 'Where Is God?'

"Where Is God?" will be the sermon topic of Rev. Peter Young at the morning worship services in the First Congregational church tomorrow.

"When Thou Comest" (Rossini) will be sung by the choir and the solo, "Save Me, O God" (Randegger) will be sung by Geraldine Harley.

Meetings for the week are Pilgrim Fellowship, 7 p. m. Sunday; social group of the Women's Association dessert luncheon, 1 p. m. Tuesday.

Dedicate Hymnals Set Sunday Service

New hymnals, donated by families and individuals, will be dedicated at the 10:30 a. m., service in the First Church of the Brethren tomorrow. Rev. R. L. Showalter, pastor, will preach on "The Dream That Came True."

Mrs. Don Blackledge will sing a soprano solo, and the choir, directed by Pauline Miller, will sing "O Wonderful Lord."

The B. Y. P. D. will play host to the confirmation class and the Junior choir at a party at 8 p. m., Friday in the parsonage. Midweek prayer service will be at 7:30 p. m., Wednesday in the church.

Hear Second In Sermon Series

Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger will present the second in a series of sermons on "The Great Doctrines of the Church" tomorrow morning, at the First Christian church, when he preaches on the theme "How God Reveals Himself to Us."

Frances Carter, soloist, will sing "O Divine Redeemer" by Gounod.

Weekly meetings scheduled include Christian Youth Fellowship at 6:30 p. m. Sunday and Ruth Circle, Tuesday.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—I don't know how much, if any, of our settlement with Mexico is to come out of lease-lend money. Perhaps none.

Johnson

But of course the whole result is one of an attempt to buy the good-will of a neighboring republic in the fight against Hitler, in which attempt we give practically everything, including our principle that expropriation without compensation is confiscation which we hitherto have refused to concede.

It is mentioned here only incidentally as a sample of our policy under actual lease-lend. The billions that we have appropriated for this purpose were with the understanding that they were to be used to arm and sustain the "peace-loving governments" who were fighting the "aggressors" in the interests of "democracy." That was before we took on bloody Joe Stalin, the chief aggressor and enemy of democracy as an ally. Now lease-lend seems to be expanded to include anybody who is fighting Hitler.

This is quite understandable but it raises a pertinent question. Is lease-lend a military project or sort of carte blanche to our government to spend all the money there is for any political purpose whatever?

Should it be handled by politicians, diplomats, social workers and economists? Or is the basic consideration one of how much of this money goes where it will do the most good in matters of purely military strategy? It seems to me that at least the primary consideration is military but there is precious little military talent or experience being used in the administration of those billions.

That great strategist, Harry Hopkins, who has spent more of the people's money than any other individual since the beginning of time and with less result is the lease-lend Poo-Bah, and, if there is a competent soldier in his retinue, I cannot for the moment recall his name.

Surely the situation now is not a far cry from the way in which some WPA projects were parcelled out. If a certain country is showing a slight weakness in support of our objectives a few tens of millions may be thrown that way. Similarly, if a South American good neighbor begins to flirt with the nazis, it may suddenly find itself the recipient of several hundred millions of dollars of this, that, or the other, which it has been seeking. If it is demonstrating a good resistance to Hitler, it may get tanks or aeroplanes in addition to other such favors. Thus the process of international log-rolling continues without much central planning, without uniform guidance and with almost total disregard for the obvious and simple fact that if we are to beat Hitler, it must be done by a well-balanced program based on military expediency.

We have long had in this country an almost neglected group of experts called the army and navy munitions board. It is an agency equipped to make decisions as to where our industrial military production will do the most good.

In our setup today, its voice is an almost neglected whisper at the counsel tables where it is drowned out by the clamor of the diplomats the politicians, the cultural experts and the new tribe of international Do-Gooders who are out to remake the world with American billions when the war is over.

HOUSE LABOR BLOC FORMS ON PRICE CONTROL

Congressmen Get Ready to Battle Question of Wage Fixing.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Formation of a closely-knit "labor bloc" was begun informally today as the house prepared for opening of a battle over price-control legislation on Monday, with demands for an all-inclusive price regulation bill rising.

The issue will be thrust squarely before the house under a bill proposed by Rep. Gore ,(D) Tenn., as a substitute for the Steagall price-control bill reported by the banking committee.

A three-way battle was forecast over clashing types of measures to control prices and halt inflation. They are:

1. The Steagall bill, generally following selective price control plan favored by administration, but omitting what the administration terms essential features. Contains a farm parity formula which, it is estimated, would boost farm prices 30 per cent.

2. Gore bill, following in many respects the plan proposed by Bernard Baruch, chairman of the world war industries board, for fixing prices on wages, rents, farm products and all commodities.

3. Administation plan, which would confer vast power to fix prices, but not including wages. Provides for licensing of firms, and power for the government to buy and sell commodities as a means of stabilizing prices, features which the banking committee omitted from its bill.

With congress aroused over the labor situation, Gore was confident of strong support for fixing of wages. Members who have led in labor legislation fights dissented.

"We are closely watching progress of the legislation," Said Rep. Healey (D) Mass., a leader of congressional labor forces. "I am pretty much convinced that the majority will decide that they are treading treacherous waters when they seek to control wages."

"All we will stand for is a statement of policy on wage control," said Rep. Kopplemann (D) Conn. "You just can't put wage control in a bill."

If the Hedges school Wildcats do not beat the Tigers in an old paper collection contest this week it will not be because seven-year-old Tommy Ward, 67½ South Main street did not do his bit. Tommy thoroughly canvassed his neighborhood for donations and then took his wagon to the home of an aunt, Mrs. Harry Lotz, 184 West Dickson avenue, where he collected so many papers the young solicitor was unable to pull the load with his own power and had to draft his uncle into service.

Fred Grimes, 263 Marion avenue, might look out his front window any of these mornings and believe it's spring instead of late fall. A flowering currant bush on the lawn at his home is in full bloom, despite the freezing weather. The bush is about three feet tall and has yellow flowers.

Approximately half a hundred Mansfield mothers and fathers won't be worried about where their offspring are running around this afternoon when the Junior Business Builders' club meets at 1 p. m., at Frankie Mitsch's corner store at 417 Orange street. The 50 children, ages eight to 15, will be treated to a tour of Harrington airport by chartered bus and a movie at a local theater, after which they will be taken home by bus. The entertainment is their reward for participating in a 17-week contest sponsored by Mitsch.

DETAILS STORY OF CRASH THAT TOOK 24 LIVES

Man Admits Planning Wreck For Robbery In West Two Years Ago.

(By United Press)

SUSANVILLE, Cal. — Authorities believed today that they had the hottest suspect yet in the wrecking of the streamliner "City of San Francisco" two years ago with a loss of 24 lives.

They had a "detailed confession," they said, from Clarence Alexandra, 24, of Cleon Springs, Okla., a railroad section hand.

Police and special agents throughout the west have received many "confessions" from cranks since the fast train was deliberately wrecked near Harney, Nev., on Aug. 12, 1939, but Alexander's statement looked authentic, authorities said, and showed only a few minor discrepancies with known facts.

They took him into Harney to go over the wreck scene and they hoped to know by tonight whether he actually had caused the death of 24 persons and the injury of 108.

Alexander, who Johnson described as "a tough looking guy," was arrested after a motorcycle accident Thursday night. Sheriff's officers said that he was a railroad worker. Johnson called in railroad and federal agents and directed the questioning toward the train disaster. After 20 hours of gruelling examination, Alexander blurted out the "confession."

"I'm glad to get this off my chest; maybe I can get some sleep nights now," he said.

Alexander said he was broke and conceived of wrecking a train to rob the passengers during the confusion.

He rode the rods on many lines picking out a likely spot, he said, before he found the Humboldt river crossing near Harney.

He stole tools from a shed and pried loose a section of track. Then hid across the river to await the wreck. He saw the fast train hit the loose rail and hurtle into the shallow creek bed, 13 of its 17 cars smashing into wreckage.

"When I heard the moaning and screaming of the passengers," Johnson quoted his confession, "I was scared, and I caught a freight train east."

He has been hiding out since, he said, getting occasional employment as a section hand.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Thanksgiving on Broadway.

ON BROADWAY, as you know, there are two kinds of turkeys: The kind on the blue plate dinner at Lindy's and the kind that is played in three acts at the Nora Bayes. And because of the plenitude of the former and the scarcity of the latter, the Stem celebrated Thanksgiving with hearty sentiment this year.

Kilgallen

Broadway can be thankful for: The richness of a season that sees the names of Maurice Evans, Helen Hayes, Ethel Barrymore and Gertrude Lawrence on the marquees, and the names of Noel Coward, Maxwell Anderson, George S. Kaufman, Edna Feber, Moss Hart and Lillian Hellman in the theater program.

For the bright synthetic prosperity manufactured by the defense era and the resultant avalanche of dollars piling up in box office cash drawers and night club cash registers. . . . For the delicious "Here Comes Mr. Jordan" and the heart-moving "How Green Was My Valley" and the exciting "The Maltese Falcon"... For the settlement of the ASCAP-networks war, and the return of Gershwin and Youmans and Kern to the ears of the nation.

* * *

Broadway can be thankful for the effulgent beauty of Leonora Corbett, of "Blithe Spirit," who looks better as a ghost than most girls look as the real thing. . . . For the sly, energetic way in which Danny Kaye measured up to everyone's fondest hopes. . . . For H. Allen Smith's hilarious compendium of a newsgatherer's assignments, "Low Man on a Totem Pole. . . . The unselfish, generous way entertainers are volunteering to perform for the boys in service. . . . And for the Brooklyn Dodgers, the Beautiful Bums, and the wonderful frenzy they created at the end of summer.

* * *

Broadway can be thankful for the taut, consuming performance of Paul Lukas in "Watch on the Rhine," the best performance of last season and the best performance of this season. . . . For Fred Allen and Jack Benny and Eddie Cantor, who keeps us laughing. . . . And the glittering visits of Marlene, Myrna, Rita, Linda, Norma and Lana. . . . For the lurid technicolor theater-stuff of which "The Land Is Bright" is fashioned. . . . The copy-making "characters" of the Broadway beat: Lenore Lemmon, Bill Ellsworth, Barbara Bannister and Broadway Rose. . . . The porcelain beauty of Renee deMarco whirling in a night club spotlight. . . . The delight of living in a town where the only sirens that matter wear skirts.

* * *

While the Gay White Way is counting its blessings it can include clever Clifton Webb and brash Shirley Booth and elfin Dorothy McGuire: it cannot leave out the inimitable Ethel Merman and the irresistible Sophie Tucker and the shining young Barrymore, Diana. . . . It can put down on the list that wonderful new Disney tale of the sweet little elephant "Dumbo." . . . It can add the amusing chi-chi of the Ruban Bleu and the delightful din of the Stork Club at midnight. . . . The bittersweet crooning of Gertrude Niesen, warmest of the torcheroos. . . . Mildred Natwick's brilliant nonsense in "Blithe Spirit" . . . George M. Cohan's recovery.

Chatter Corner

Miss Marjorie High, membership chairman of the Business and Professional Women's clubs, chatting with club associates in a downtown store. . . . Miss Margaret West of Tiffin, former Mansfield Y. W. C. A. executive secretary, being welcomed by friends on a holiday visit here.

Frannie Diaffan and Marilyn Graham excitedly talking about the lovely colors while visiting the library art exhibit with Miss Angela Shaneff, principal at Country Day school. . . . Mayor William J. Locke all bundled up in his warmest starting out to attend the Michigan-Ohio State game at Ann Arbor . . . Boy Scouts putting up posters for the Christmas seal sale.

* * *

Joe Ryan worrying about the proper adjustment for the stoker on his furnace. . . . Paul Eugene Monett, 50½ Baldwin avenue, a second lieutenant in the infantry, terminating his service in the army reserve corps by declining reappointment . . . Sheriff Frank E. Robinson attending the Ohio Sheriff's association meeting in Columbus. . . . Bryan Styert, clerk of the No. 2 draft board, proudly telling his co-workers that every one of the 67 men called for physical examinations in Columbus yesterday reported early in the morning.

* * *

Karl E. Weller, Tappan salesman in town for the week-end, chatting with a friend at the Mansfield-Leland corner yesterday afternoon.

Boy Scouts Robert Pore and Charles Perkyblle putting up those "Buy Christmas Seals" signs. . . . Assistant Postmaster W. T. Houston walking briskly down Mulberry street to his office. . . . Frances Brinkerhoff offering her services as chaperon to a church group.

BRIEF ILLNESS ENDS IN DEATH

Noah Hetsler, 80, Succumbs at Son's Home Near Polk.

ASHLAND—A retired carpenter, Noah Hetsler, 80, died Friday at the home of his son, Roy Hetsler, northwest of Polk following a brief illness.

Surviving are two sons, Lloyd of Ashland, and Roy with whom he made his home; two grandchildren, three brothers, W. S. and M. L. Hetsler, both of Ashland, and Albert of Polk; two sisters, Mrs. Katherine Morr, of near Ashland, and Mrs. Mary Worst, Lattasburg.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. at the home and at 2:30 p. m. at the Trinity Evangelical church near Polk. Rev. A. A. Hunter, pastor of the Ashland Methodist church and Rev. D. L. Bachman, pastor of Trinity Evangelical church will officiate. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

PLAN 'WELCOME'

New C. of C. Members to Meet For Smoker Monday.

More than 100 new members of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, enrolled in the recent membership drive, will be guests at a "welcome smoker" and get-together meeting Monday at 8 p. m., in the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

O. C. McCormick, chairman of the Chamber's membership meetings committee, will be in charge of arrangements. E. C. Geiger, chairman of the membership committee, will act as toastmaster.

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager, said that the meeting would be held to allow new and old members to become acquainted. Workers on the membership teams will also attend the meeting.

Robert C. Remy, president, will welcome the new members. The evening's program will be informal with short talks by officers and directors of the group.

Tells of Robberies After Arrest of Suspects Loosens Tongue.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A fear of reprisals lifted by arrest of three robbery suspects, an 18-year-old girl recounted today how she was abducted and taken on a five-day crime tour of three states.

Detectives Ray Archer and William Hixon said they coaxed the story from Margaret Paudicz and were informed by Peoria, Ill., police that the trio named by Miss Paudicz was held there following a grocery hold-up.

Dubbed the "shoestring" bandits because they left victims trussed with shoestrings, two young men and a young woman are wanted here for hold-ups of the Uptown theater, the Aid Investment Discount company, and the Alhambra theater.

Archer and Hixon said Miss Paudicz, dark-eyed laundry worker, at first was afraid to talk for fear of threatened reprisals by her abductors but finally told this story:

She was going to work Oct. 25 when she was forced into an automobile at gunpoint. Her abductors drove to Indianapolis and St. Louis, robbing filling stations in both cities, and then to Omaha.

The three watched her constantly, but once during the trip through Indiana she contrived to scribble "notify the police" on a street car ticket and pass it to a hitch-hiker the party had picked up.

In Omaha, the men met another man and left the girl in an apartment. During the night Miss Paudicz slipped away, bought a bus ticket and returned home.

Archer and Hixon said the girl told them she knew about one of the Columbus holdups and apparently was abducted to "keep her quiet."

20 TICKETS FOR MOVIE WINNERS

Twenty admission tickets to the Ohio theater await the winners of the silhouette contests being sponsored by the Ohio theater jointly with The News-Journal in connection with William Powell's picture, "Shadow of the Thin Man," opening today at the Ohio.

Friday's issue of The Journal carried the "Shadow of the Thin Man," in puzzle-piece form and as this silhouette was complete in itself it will be the only one used in the contests. A previous announcement indicated that four silhouettes would be published before the contest would be complete.

Rules for the contest require that all contestants reassemble the pieces, paste them on a paper or cardboard and submit their entry to The News-Journal Contest Editor not later than Monday at 6 p. m.

LINKED TO ROBBERY

CINCINNATI —(INS)— One of two armed bandits who locked two officers of the Molitor Savings and Loan company into a clothes cupboard and fled with $800 late yesterday, was believed to have participated in a previous robbery of the same institution last July when $1,500 was taken.

BRIDE, 70, YOUTHFUL GROOM BEGIN HONEYMOON OF PRAYER

(By United Press)

FORT WORTH, Tex. — Theological student Raymond Vann, 25, and Lou Wilkins, 70, a Baptist missionary, began a honeymoon of prayer and fasting today.

They were joined yesterday in a marriage they said had been "made in heaven."

"Brothers," the bridegroom told the press, "Make this hilarious, if you please, but treat my wife fairly and don't write anything that a perfect lady wouldn't approve."

The press had been attracted to the wedding by the disproportionate ages shown on the marriage license issued yesterday morning. They discovered it was a romance which had reached its flower in the Baptist Theological Seminary where the bridegroom, soon to be ordained, studied, and his bride taught.

"We met 10 months ago," explained the demure white-haired bride, "and we ofter read the Bible together and discussed the scripture but not until 10 days ago did romance occur to us.

"Then he asked me to marry him and I was amazed but I agreed because I thought God wanted me to do it.

"We don't care what people think of this marriage because we know it was made in heaven."

The bridegroom is dark, tall virile in appearance, possessing the physique of an athlete. He was a track and tennis star at Conners college in Warne, Okla., graduated from the University of Oklahoma last year.

REACHES 5,519

Red Cross Reports 298 More Memberships Received.

Membership in Richland county chapter of the Red Cross climbed to 5,519 today as Mansfield Roll Call workers reported membership gains of 298 since yesterday and an increase in cash contributions that sent the total to $7,645.29.

Reports in the campaign so far have been based solely on statistics, according to Miss Lenore Van Gundia, executive secretary. No county reports have been received, Miss Van Gundia said, indicating that workers are waiting to complete their territory before notifying headquarters.

The county drive for 22,000 members started 12 days ago with 650 Roll Call workers seeking 15,300 memberships in Mansfield; 3,700 in Shelby, and 3,000 in the remainder of the county.

Memberships reported to Roll Call headquarters thus far have been largely based on local firms and organizations enlisting 100 per cent with the county chapter.

ILLNESS FATAL

"That fellow must think he's a toe-dancer!"

ANOTHER CASE

Undulant Fever Strikes 7th Victim, Health Chief Says.

Richland county's undulant fever count went up another point today as Dr. William B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, announced that the seventh case this month had been reported to his office.

Wild said that the newest case is a resident of Mansfield. This is the third of the cases occuring in Mansfield. The other cases have been spread throughout the county. Two of the cases are attributed to direct contact of farmers with cows suffering from Bang's disease.

The sudden outbreak of the disease cannot be explained, according to Wild. Up until November no cases had been reported in this county. Only two were reported for all of 1940. The health commissioner said that the disease has been reported in increasing numbers, however, in all parts of the state.

Says Londoners Prefer Bombing To Being Bored

CHICAGO —(INS)— Far from driving Londoners crazy as the Germans hoped, the bombings in England actually prevented mental breakdowns, according to Dr. Robert Dick Gillespie, a Royal Air Force psychiatrist.

Dr. Gillespie explained in Chicago that air raid shelters and community centers, new institutions which came with the bombings in England, fill a need for companionship and entertainment and thus prevent "psychoneurosis."

"We find many persons returning from the safe areas to the shelters of the large cities, declared: 'I'd rather be bombed than bored,'" he told a group of psychiatrists at Northwestern university.

Psychoneurotic victims are also rare among RAF flyers, according to Dr. Gillespie. In fact, he said, a mental hospital which was built to take care of any RAF flyers afflicted with mental troubles had to be closed because there were not enough patients.

ASKS INDUSTRY TO RECOGNIZE 'CLOSED SHOP'

CIO Calls Plan 'Practical Means' of Assuring Good Relations.

Steel company, California Shipbuilding company, and the Oregon Shipbuilding company, where the resolutions charged that CIO shipyard workers had suffered from discrimination "practiced by AFL agents who control hiring of all men."

Regional NLRB directors, the measure said, demonstrated "bias against CIO unions" in the shipyard districts.

Meanwhile, at Washington, the United Mine Workers' 200-man policy committee convened today to draft a reply to President Roosevelt's two-point emergency proposal for resumption of work in captive coal mines.

The committee, meeting against a backdrop of gunfire and violence in the fields, was expected to reject the proposal. UMW President John L. Lewis, who has "personally" rejected Mr. Roosevelt's suggestions, placed them before a closed meeting of the union officials.

UMW spokesmen said the reply would not be made public until after it is delivered to the White House, perhaps shortly after noon.

Union officials predicted unanimous support of Lewis' stand, pointing out that the committee on four previous occasions had endorsed his demand for a union shop for the 53,000 captive miners —the only point at issue.

The president offered two alternatives—freezing of the open shop status for duration of the emergency or submission of the union shop issue to arbitration. When it is rejected, the next move will be up to Mr. Roosevelt, who has declared it his "indisputable obligation" to safeguard the defense program from a prolonged coal stoppage.

He told his press conference yesterday that he plans no action until after he has received the committee's decision.

Three More Pickets Wounded At Mine

PITTSBURGH — (INS) — Three more pickets were wounded today as a lone blast of gunfire at bloody Edenborn heightened tension in the strike-locked Fayette county coal field where violence coupled with a request for help has failed to bring state police intervention.

The shotgun charge, which pickets said was fired from the H. C. Frick Coke company property, climaxed a night of grim expectancy. Some 400 United Mine Workers pickets ranged the road past the Edenborn mine where yesterday 10 pickets were wounded and about 40 others clustered at the "company store" a quarter mile distant.

But not until just before dawn did anything resembling violence occur. Then the single shot rang out. Pickets ducked, expecting a fusillade. Three of their number jerked with quick pain as pellets struck them.

Those wounded were treated at the scene. Reporters were chased from the scene by the pickets.

Ohio Strikes Spread To Two More Mines

ATHENS—(INS)—The sympathy strike of Ohio Commercial Miners spread to two more workings today.

At the Hocking mine of the Hocking Valley Coal company, 150 union miners left their jobs, as did 100 others at mine No. 24 at Redtown.

The latest walkouts raised to 1,350 the estimated number of Ohio miners on strike in sympathy with the idle employes of captive mines in other states. Five mines in Athens county were reported working today.

Will Report Rail Talk Failure To FDR

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Railway management and labor representatives report to President Roosevelt today on their inability to settle the wage dispute which threatens a nation-wide railroad strike of 1,150,000 workers Dec. 7.

The decision to report to the White House was reached after fact-to-face conversations, resumed at Mr. Roosevelt's request, ended abruptly last night.

President A. F. Whitney of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen said the meeting broke up when the management told labor representatives it would not budge from recommendations made by the president's special fact-finding board. He said this represented a "complete breakdown" in the talks and a union spokesman added that "it throws the dispute back into the president's lap."

Scene of Mine Frays Where 14 Were Wounded

Here is the H. C. Frick Coke company's Edenborn mine in Fayette county, Pa., where 11 more men were wounded in an outbreak of gun play between pickets and non-strikers following three shootings the day before at the same mine, which has been operating on a partial basis. Hundreds of shots were fired from the hillsides into the valley in which the mine is located. Most of the shots came from behind the building at left. None of the 11 shot in the latest outbreak was seriously injured.

BURN MORTGAGE AT ST. LUKE'S CHURCH DINNER

Special Program to Be Held Thursday; Services For Sunday Announced.

The completion of a $70,000 building program begun in 1922 will be celebrated by the congregation of St. Luke's Lutheran church when the church mortgage will be burned at a covered dish dinner, 6:30 p. m. Thursday in the church.

At tomorrow's morning worship service the last Sunday of Trinity will be observed with Rev. H. S. Garnes, pastor, preaching on "The Parable of the Ten Virgins."

Under the direction of Florence MacDonald, the choir will sing "O Clap Your Hands Together" by Turner. Luther league will meet at 7 p. m.

Lutherans to Hold Memorial Service

In a special service designed as a memorial to departed church members, Rev G. E. Swoyer's sermon subject will be, "Those Wise As the Virgins," at the morning worship service in the First Lutheran church tomorrow.

Special music for the occasion will be provided by the robed choir, singing "On Eagle Wings," and Althea Lorentz singing the solo "Beside Still Waters," both written by Hamblen.

The Luther league will meet at 6:30 p. m. and evening services will be held at 7:30 p. m.

Meetings for next week are: Earnest Workers, 1 p. m. Monday; Luther league entertainment, 7:30 p. m. Tuesday; First district, all day Wednesday and Eighth district, all day Tuesday.

Pay Off Debt, Burn Note at Service

Fire and smoke will curl upward from the altar of St. Paul's Lutheran church at 10:30 a. m., tomorrow as the facsimile of a note, marking payment of a large part of the Decoration Fund debt is burned during the service of praise and thanksgiving.

Also during the service, 28 men will be commissioned to make an eight-day every-member visitation throughout the church.

Rev. H. L. Gilbert, pastor, will take "A Christian's Comparison of Values" for his sermon subject.

Weekly meetings include the missionary society, 2 p. m., Wednesday; Lutheranites, 7:30 p. m., Wednesday; and Thursday Nighters, 6:30 p. m., Thursday, for a supper and Farmers' party.

'Soul and Body,' Topic of Sermon

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in the Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The golden text is: "Rejoice thee soul of thy servant: for unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul" (Psalms 86:4).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people" (Matthew 4:23).

Guest Pastor To Preach Sunday

In the absence of Rev. P. H. Saleste, Rev. M. M. Allbeck will fill the pulpit of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church tomorrow, preaching on "Virgins, Wise and Foolish," at the 10:30 a. m. service

Meetings for the week include the annual bazaar and supper, sponsored by the St. John's Ladies' guild, 11 a. m. Wednesday; Ladies' Aid Society, 2 p. m. Tuesday; the official church board meeting, 7:30 p. m. Thursday and the regularly scheduled choir rehearsals and confirmation classes.

Speaks Sunday

President of Kalamazoo (Mich.) college, and a leader in the Northern Baptist convention, Dr. Paul L. Thompson, shown above, will speak at the Park Avenue Baptist church at 10:30 a. m., tomorrow on the subject "The World Emergency." He appears under the auspices of the Northern Baptist convention.

Pastor to Preach On 'Where Is God?'

"Where Is God?" will be the sermon topic of Rev. Peter Young at the morning worship services in the First Congregational church tomorrow.

"When Thou Comest" (Rossini) will be sung by the choir and the solo, "Save Me, O God" (Randegger) will be sung by Geraldine Harley.

Meetings for the week are Pilgrim Fellowship, 7 p. m. Sunday; social group of the Women's Association dessert luncheon, 1 p. m. Tuesday.

Dedicate Hymnals Set Sunday Service

New hymnals, donated by families and individuals, will be dedicated at the 10:30 a. m., service in the First Church of the Brethren tomorrow. Rev. R. L. Showalter, pastor, will preach on "The Dream That Came True."

Mrs. Don Blackledge will sing a soprano solo, and the choir, directed by Pauline Miller, will sing "O Wonderful Lord."

The B. Y. P. D. will play host to the confirmation class and the Junior choir at a party at 8 p. m., Friday in the parsonage. Midweek prayer service will be at 7:30 p. m., Wednesday in the church.

Hear Second In Sermon Series

Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger will present the second in a series of sermons on "The Great Doctrines of the Church" tomorrow morning, at the First Christian church, when he preaches on the theme "How God Reveals Himself to Us."

Frances Carter, soloist, will sing "O Divine Redeemer" by Gounod.

Weekly meetings scheduled include Christian Youth Fellowship at 6:30 p. m. Sunday and Ruth Circle, Tuesday.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1941.

Drive carefully tomorrow—read Monday's paper for a report of those who do not.

Oceanographers predict that at some future time Japan will suddenly disappear into the sea—but probably not soon enough to solve any pressing problems of the moment.

Strike Violence Undefensible

OUTBREAKS of violence in connection with mine strikes now in progress should occasion no surprise. Such episodes have been too common in the past to retain any element of novelty.

The mere fact that this, in at least a small way, constitutes civil war against the orderly processes of government does not serve to restrain those elements that indulge in acts of violence—not stopping at murder—in an effort to enforce demands.

While mine strikes, under the John L. Lewis leadership, have been particularly associated with blood-spilling, violence has frequently flared in strikes related to other lines of employment, to an extent that indicates this has come to be regarded by some people as a legitimate part of strike procedure.

Complaint has been made that racketeers and known criminals have edged their way into positions of authority in labor organizations, and the recent convictions of Bioff and Browne in New York provided proof of the truth of this charge. But it must be contended that violence and vandalism are equally far removed from the realm of decent behavior and that there can be no public sympathy with the beatings and shootings associated with mine strikes—or any other strikes.

Self government in a nation, state or community presupposes self control of individuals, and willingness to abide by laws intended to promote the general welfare.

Those who wilfully violate laws, whether a individuals or groups, classify themselves as bad citizens and should be made answerable for their offenses and responsible for their acts.

The principles of Americanism cannot thrive in an atmosphere of lawlessness.

Hoarding May Bring Inflation

FORESIGHTED people are naturally inclined to look ahead economically, safeguard their credit by paying old bills, buy the clothing they need, get this and that for their homes, and generally prepare for a "siege." Within reasonable limits this is commendable foresight in a time of considerable uncertainty. To city people such procedure is much like that of the farmer preparing for winter, except that they are trying to safeguard themselves over a longer period.

Many Americans, however, have been tempted lately to go beyond such thrifty foresight and store away more food, clothing and other essentials than are necessary. This over-buying has been a big factor in the recent rise in prices of the necessaries of life. Such a rise threatens everybody and falls hardest on those who are least able to bear it. And if any movement of this kind once gets a good start, it may carry the country into ruinous inflation.

The best attitude in such matters is the sportsmanlike way of not overdoing security, but taking chances with the rest. Such procedure spreads a wholesome state of mind that helps to carry us all through whatever we have to face.

Safest procedure, under existing conditions, is to buy foodstuffs, wearing apparel and household necessities in a normal way, with inclination to avoid items that show abnormal price jumps. Such a plan, if generally adopted, would go far toward heading off the present inflationary trend.

Few Want Unchopped Wood

WITH all the current enthusiasm for fireplaces indoors and outdoors, you might think there would be a lot of enthusiastic wood choppers in any part of the country. The state forester in Connecticut thought so when he announced a plan whereby any able-bodied man could get himself $100 worth of firewood for $1 and some exercise in the open air. Under this plan the forestry department would issue "free use permits" allowing the holder, on payment of a fee of $1, to go into the nearest state forest and cut himself ten cords of wood.

So far, only 50 permits have been issued and no more than 13 have actually been used.

A second plan provides for wood-cutting on private land on a share basis. Forty landowners registered their willingness to co-operate, but only two prospective choppers have applied.

It seems that even with Lincoln's example, wood-chopping will never rival golf as an outdoor sport.

Sailor Bill and Josephine

WHY was so much attention paid to the wedding of Sailor Bill Langford and Josephine Phillips, in Garfield, N. J., a couple of days ago?

You'd never heard of either Bill or Josephine, yet you're one in a thousand if you were not interested in the story of how he found the girl crying on a park bench, how he later heard of her being arrested for vagrancy, and how he secured leave from his ship so that they might be happily married.

It's the old Cinderella appeal of romance; it follows the ancient formula of fictioneers bringing a happy ending out of a pitiful plight. Maybe it will be a successful marriage, maybe not—but it made a "good story"—if that helps you any in answering the question, "What is news?"

Slavery Can't Be Permanent

NO CIVILIZATION has ever endured when people thought they could get more out of it than they put into it, says Marian Cuthbert of New York, speaking of Negro problems. That was the fallacy of slavery. People couldn't profit by it permanently.

Nations that try to profit by military aggression run up against the same obstacle. They think they can make a net profit by robbing and exploiting and killing their neighbors. And they may seem to be winning for a while, but eventually they register a net loss. Even when they win military victories, they lose by destroying property, good will, co-operation and population. Germany is beginning to realize that now.

Nothing so convulses Bob Weitman as thinking about that rib Tony Martin pulled on Danny Kay when the latter was on the stage at the Paramount. . . . Tony put on an usher's uniform, hurried down the aisle, and through cupped hands bawled, "Hit the road, Bum!" . . . Next day a white-coated vender strolled down the aisle yelling "Pretzels, Pretzels, PRETZELS!" while Tony—who just opened following Kay—was singing "Begin the Beguin." . . . It angered Martin 'til he took a second look and recognized the heckler as Danny.

"BERLIN DIARY"

View Loans as Inflation Barriers

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

LOAN sharks weren't governmentally regarded as economically very valuable folk until quite recently but today Uncle Sam's beginning to glance at 'em with an increasingly kindly eye.

Some of them (maybe all, though it's hard to tell yet just how intensively the campaign's being waged) have even received extremely confidential encouragement from emergency official sources to increase their advertising and get as many people into their clutches as they can.

Most of the private agencies make loans to reliable persons up to $300 apiece, and the more borrowers there are, according to the new reasoning, the better it'll be for national economics, not necessarily right now, but in the long run.

As has been thoroughly advertised, the government is sitting up nights inventing schemes to get civilian buying of everything down to an irreducible minimum. That's one of the objects of the diabolically weighty taxation that emergency economists are urging and that congress is doping out.

Of course the treasury wants the money, too, but the economists say it's about equally important to skin consumers out of so much of their incomes that they'll have precious little left to spend on themselves. Otherwise they'll competitively bid up prices, as civilian supplies run shorter and shorter, we'll have inflation and hades will ensue.

New Angle.

All that's an old story, but its loan shark angle is something new.

A citizen who borrows, say, $300 from a loan agency possibly will feel momentarily affluent and maybe will scatter that 300 bucks around pretty fast, perhaps inflating a bit while the wad lasts.

Before long, however, he'll be cleaned out, with a $300 indebtedness chalked up against him, plus some terrific rate of interest.

And WILL that loan outfit attend to collecting it!

Uncle Sam knows darned well he can't do as efficient a job of collecting as the loan shark can.

Besides straight taxes, which Uncle Samuel will scoop in and keep, he's offering, or is about to offer, quite an assortment of bonds and savings stamps. Such sales as he makes will supply him with considerable ready cash, but finally he'll have to return it to the security holders, plus interest. Settling with loan companies will reduce the public's purchasing power just as effectively as bond and stamp buying will, and afterward the government will have nothing to pay back.

Loans Lure.

It's reckoned also that patronizing a loan agency will have more attractions to the average individual than bond and stamp buying.

From the loan outfit he'll get an immediate bundle of greenbacks, and the problem of returning the bundle and more, too, will be away off in the future to him. Contrariwise, if he invests in bonds or stamps, it'll be immediately out of pocket for him, and recovering his dough will be in the future, maybe not until after the emergency, involving an indefinite wait.

The government wants to sell bonds and stamps all right.

What it would like best would be for Mr. Citizen to borrow $300 from a loan office and spend it for bonds or stamps or both.

Then he wouldn't have enough purchasing power left to do any inflating and Uncle Sam would have the agency's money via the borrower.

It isn't reckoned, though, that borrowing from loan concerns will amount to anything appreciable from the standpoint of federal revenue. No astute person is likely to borrow at a darned stiff rate in order to buy bonds and stamps at a far lower one. The loaning agency's mission will be, rather, to put a ceiling on their customers' buying capacity, preventing inflation at its source.

Listen World!

I Like Old Things

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I LIKE old things . . . things that I've lived and worked with till we share one life. Like men will love a battered fishing pole, a pipe.

There's that snuff jar that came "around the Cape" in '49 or maybe in the Covered Wagon cavalcade. A simple, sturdy little jar about six inches high . . . a bit askew . . . made of some grayish clay that's mellowed through the years. Somebody found it in a High Sierra mining camp.

They made their jars to last in '49. No flimsy glass or tricked-up packages of paper or of tin could stand the storms that lashed that roaring trail. Besides stuff cost so much it had to serve a score of different ways. So, when the snuff was gone, I'm sure that someone filled the jar with jam or spice, dried figs or herbs, or salve of healing bark, brewed by old Indians from their secret lore . . . or by some homesick bride, new come from out Vermont, Connecticut or Maine.

So many ways it's served, that chunky jar. And now it stands upon my cabin window sill, filled with "Sweet William" . . . daffodils, in spring, with pussy willow twigs . . . tight handfuls that the neighbor babies bring of buttercups, wild lilac, red and white "spice pinks."

And, near the jar, there hangs from a hand-whittled peg a mackinaw of faded, friendly plaid. I've worn that coat since 1912, through all my mining years. It sheltered me against the wind and rain, the nipping cold. I've slept in it beside a make-shift fire . . . and heard the cowboys circling 'round their restless herd . . . or watched a shepherd drowsing by his flock, after we'd shared a stew of lentils, garlic and lamb. Or waked to hear a lone coyote's wail. I'll wager I have walked a thousand miles in that old coat. The smell of tar weed lingers in it yet . . . its pockets bear the bulge of chunks of ore. I like that coat. It was more than a coat; it was a friend.

And there's a handful of old books my Dad and Mother gave me when I turned thirteen. Old books I've carted back and forth across the continent, and read by lantern light in some old shaft or tent. Jules Verne—remember the thrill of "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea!" A "Gilbert Shakespeare," with its mellow leather scratched by greasewood and its pages marked by leaves. Some fairy tales . . . Hans Anderson . . . Arabian Nights. The Bible that my dear lad used to read. Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass." A treasured "Peck's Bad Boy."

Then, since I am a woman, there's a mixing bowl . . . a mended darning basket and a wooden spoon.

And, by the door—most loved—a little figure in a home-made shrine, of Mary and the Babe. It, too, is of clay—a crude thing, roughly molded, with small, blue flowers sprinkled on her gown. Crude—did I say? And yet She comforts me a dozen times a day.

Perhaps She too has hidden, somewhere, Her small Son's first shoe . . . And knows that mothers must have things like that, even in Paradise.

I like old things, old things I've lived and worked with till they're warm with life. That shabby coat . . . the well-worn pages and the yellow bowl . . . the gentle Mother, waiting at my door. They all have something in them money can't buy—the magic that can only come with quiet service and long friendliness.

WE KNOW TOO LITTLE, WE AMERICANS, OF COMRADESHIP LIKE THAT. WE WILL NOT WAIT FOR FRIENDLINESS TO COME . . . NO TIME TO BUILD A HAVEN AND A HOME WITHIN A FEW-LOVED THINGS. WE LIVE TOO FAST . . . TOO SHALLOWLY . . . TO PUT DOWN ROOTS IN LIFE.

One-Minute Test

1. What football team scored the highest number of points ever made in a college game, and what team did it defeat?

2. What is the difference between a French horn and an English horn?

3. What great nations lost their power in the world because of the defeat of their navies?

Hints on Etiquette

Don't pass judgment on yourself when talking with others. It is just as poor taste to be too humble, belittling yourself, as it it to be boastful.

Words of Wisdom

My precept to all who build is, that the owner should be an ornament to the house, and not the house to the owner.—Cicero.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. Georgia Tech scored 222 points in defeating Cumberland university in 1917. The final score was 222-0.

2. The French horn is a brass instrument, the English horn is woodwind, a tenor oboe.

3. In ancient times Athens and Carthage; more recently, Holland, Spain and France; and in 1918 Germany's naval power was forced to surrender to England.

Timely Editorial

Dr. Goebbels Admits.

For the first time in our recollection the German propaganda minister, Dr. Goebbels, has notified the German people that they have a tough time in prospect, and must keep their heads up. Heretofore, he has always talked about the easy victory that lay just ahead. It was to come in the autumn of 1939, then in the autumn of 1940, then early in 1941. It hasn't come yet, and to the sorrow brought to millions of German homes by the casualties in Russia are added hardships that must be endured.

The minister admits that there are food lines — useless to deny this that all can see—that families are separated, that air raids drive people to underground shelters where they get scant sleep.

It is another bleak winter that Germany faces and it is interesting to observe that the government has given up pretense on the subject. Perhaps it has realized that in view of the hard facts that have come home to the people there is no use trying to keep them in a world of illusion. —Kansas City Star.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

If Courage Remains.

No matter if the way is dark
And bleak misfortunes fall
Upon me; if my courage stays
I still can conquer all

The grief and pain, yes, everything
That rests so heavily
To weigh me down. If courage stays
My spirit will be free

At last of weariness and I
Can seek again success
I crave. If courage stays, I will Defeat each deep distress.

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

AMERICA'S foreign policy is to oppose the Axis and the Axis' friends.

This has been settled—at least for the time being. Now the question is: How can it best be done? In other words, what should America's policy be toward itself? What policy should it adopt that will compel every citizen to do his bit, yet will be fair to every citizen too?

The strike in the captive coal mines brought America face to face with the need of settling quickly a desperate problem that threatened to handcuff its stated foreign policy.

Tempers were running high in congress the past week. A half dozen or more proposals were drafted to prevent or control strikes in defense industries. On the floor of the House, Rep. Mary T. Norton (D-N.J.) declared: "We do not intend to permit any selfish minority, whether they be workers or industrialists, to gain unfair advantage because of a national emergency."

Fears 'Smoke Screen.'

But she added "We are not willing to use the war emergency as a smoke screen to destroy labor legislation."

Senator Connally (D—Tex) framed a bill to permit the government to take over defense plants threatened by "labor disturbance or other cause." He said he had high hopes President Roosevelt would accept the idea in principle.

Persons close to the president said he believed it was time to crack down on John L. Lewis, president of the CIO United Mine Workers, and on all interruptions in defense production. Yet administration leaders postponed action on FDR's request for $7,000,000,000 in additional defense funds—because, it was said, they feared ill-considered strike legislation might be tacked on to it as amendments.

Japan Restless.

Even as the president wired the CIO convention that "our defense program must be all out," relations with Japan were more threatening than ever.

The day after Saburo Kurusu, Japan's special envoy, reached Washington the Japanese Parliament voted a military budget of about $870,000,000, and Foreign Minister Togo warned "There is naturally a limit to our conciliatory attitude."

Tokyo advices suggested that the government's reason for sending Kurusu here was to represent to the Japanese people that it had done all it could, and that if war came it would be America's fault.

At Home

Savings In Sight?

There has been considerable demand in congress for a reduction in non-defense spending. Now a committee appointed to investigate the possibilities has made its report.

Secretary Morgenthau, who is a member of the committee along with Budget Director Smith and 12 members of congress, outlined a five-point program which he said should knock a billion dollars out of the non-defense budget every year. The five points:

1. Elimination of highway aid to states in 1942-43.
2. Elimination or drastic reduction of CCC and NYA activities.
3. Slashes in aid to farmers.
4. Postponement of unnecessary power and irrigation projects.
5. Postponement of river, harbor and flood control jobs.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.), chairman of the committee, said he figured closer to two billion could be saved.

Family Men May Be Drafted.

Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national draft director, estimates 70% of men otherwise eligible for selective service are now deferred because of dependents. But, he told a New York meeting:

"Every American family must have come by now to know that the time is past when it may cherish first its rights and privileges. . . . Deferments are temporary and it may become necessary to withdraw many of them."

* * *

Post-War "Pillow."

One thing everybody dreads is the possibility of a terrible depression after the war, but Secretary Wickard says the U. S. agriculture department "does not share this pessimism."

Tuesday he announced a plan under which American farmers would help build a "post-war world in which we will make full use of our man power and our resources for the benefit of the American people."

A national committee has been set up to consider a program of public works, conservation, increased services for farm people, decentralization of industry and keeping America's share of the foreign market for farm products.

* * *

Objectors Well Treated.

The government, recalling numerous cases of discontent during the World war, made fuller provision for conscientious objectors under the present draft act.

Last week-end Paul C. French, secretary of the National Service Board for Religious Objectors, told a conference that 1,695 men had been assigned to special Civilian Public Service Camps after telling draft officials their religion was against war. He said:

"The present system, while not fully satisfactory to everyone, is certainly more desirable than the methods used in 1917 and 1918."

Abroad

Caucasus Prizes.

The Caucasus is usually thought of as mostly a vast oil field, Russia's greatest. It is true that the Caucasus does provide most of the Soviet's oil (the National Geographic Society says between 80 and 90%), but it is also an important food producing area.

As Adolf Hitler's army peered across the narrow strait separating the Caucasus from the captured Crimean city of Kerch, a U. S. Department of Agriculture expert described the Nazis' drive into southern Russia as an attempt to cut off "one of the richest agricultural regions of the Soviet Union" as well as to capture badly needed oil supplies.

Around Moscow, the Russians reported they were carrying the fight to the enemy more and more.

* * *

Trouble In the Hills.

The Serbs, in what used to be Yugoslavia, are a tough crew. Many of them live in the hills and have carried guns all their lives. Last week-end a spokesman for the exile Yugoslav government in London said that the hill dwellers, by constant guerrilla warfare, have wrested control of three-fourths of Serbia from the German army.

This was done, he said, in spite of some 350,000 executions. News from Yugoslavia, he explained, came from "secret, direct sources" which had reported that 2,300 persons had been executed in one city alone for the killing of 26 German soldiers.

* * *

Short Smokes In Sweden.

The war has cut down heavily on American tobacco exports. During the week the agriculture department reported information from Sweden that tobacco was so scarce that paper mouthpieces were being placed on cigarets, reducing the tobacco content one-third.

People

Peace Hopes.

The Rev. Benney Benson of the Kent Street Reformed Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., once toured Germany by bicycle and was arrested there during the World war as a suspected spy. Now he wants to go back to arrange a "most sublime Christmas present" for the world—a negotiated peace.

If he can't get a passport, he says he will get to Europe somehow, fly to Berlin and parachute down—"I will gladly re-enact what Hess did if necessary. This is no stunt."

* * *

Prepared for the Best.

Much against its judgment, the war department gave permission for eight newspaper women to observe the Carolina maneuvers and write about things that would interest mothers back home.

The women carried their own idea of proper field kit—everything from riding togs to evening gowns. Ruth Cowan of the AP explained the evening gown angle as "resulting from the discovery that the feminine scribes were being quartered at a hotel where a lot of officers have headquarters."

Archeology Dept.

Dr. John F. Daniel of Pennsylvania University reported on his findings in the ancient Greek city of Cyprus. One discovery, he said, was probably the oldest known Greek inscription, on the rim of a big pot. The inscription:

"Put the lid on."

In Short

Indicted: Three American watch companies, on anti-trust charges.

Paid: $462,174,927 in farm benefits, by the agriculture department in year ending June 20.

Ruled: By the state department, that aliens must obtain an exit permit to leave the country.

Married: Tommy Manville, 47, to his fifth wife, showgirl Bonita Edwards, 22.

Ordered: By Gov. Spessard Holland of Florida, that "open and notorious" bookmaking and gambling be smashed in the Miami-Hollywood-Ft. Lauderdale resort area.

Killed: Col. Gen. Ernst Udet, German World war ace and quartermaster-general of Nazi air force, in an accident; 9 persons in flaming bus wreck in Indiana; 7 in explosion of a wrecked truck in Texas; 6 in a fire at a Long Island sanitarium; 4 in crash of an army bomber in Maine.

Quotes

Janet Flanner, foreign correspondent: "The downfall of democracy is money worship because democracy was founded on spiritual things."

Henry A. Wallace: "We cannot permit a war-born prosperity derived from governmental appropriations to increase consumption in lines where it interferes with defense activity. Along that road lie both defeat and inflation."

Sellout Crowd of 85,000 See Bucks Battle Michigan

Sport Podge by REX HESS

You know, the second quarter of that Mansfield-Fremont football fracas on Turkey day seemed a bit short to me. And my notes on that quarter were the shortest I've taken on any period of play this season.

So I checked up, and discovered there were only 28 plays in the 12-minute quarter, slightly more than two to the minute.

"How bad is that?" I asked myself. And being a guy who admits he doesn't know anywhere near his share of the answers, I checked up some more.

* * *

This further research disclosed that there were 34 plays in the first period, 30 in the third, and 34 in the fourth, or a total of 126 for the game, an average of two and five-eighths plays per minute.

"Maybe," I said to myself, since I couldn't find anyone else interested in the subject, "maybe there weren't many incomplete passes to stop the clock."

But there were 12 incomplete passes, so that wasn't the answer.

* * *

All of this leads up to nothing much, so why go on. The gridology research lab is closed for the day, and then some.

* * *

Pity the Mansfield Tygers who lose 16 seniors off the top of their undefeated football squad, then—

Pity the undefeated Canton Lehman squad which will lose 21 seniors off the top.

* * *

I don't know whether it's anything for next year's Tygers to worry about, but Springfield's line may be strengthened by three men in one position next fall.

The three men are named George Snyder, a 14-year-old behemoth who stands six feet tall and weighs 272 pounds, and who was the regular center this fall on Springfield's Keifer junior high six-man team.

* * *

The Canton Repository says that on paper Massillon is two to three touchdowns better than Canton, McKinley in today's game at Canton. And points out that the dope can be just a scrap of paper.

FELLER'S MOTHER SENDS NOTE TO DRAFT OFFICERS

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Bob Feller's mother has written a letter to a selective service board here giving additional information pertinent to his family responsibilities, but a board member said he doubted if it would affect the Cleveland Indians baseball pitcher's scheduled induction in the army in February.

At his Van Meter, Iowa, home, Feller said his mother's letter was not a request for his deferment. Both his father and mother have been ill. The young fireballer's salary is reportedly $45,000 a year.

Road Ends For Most Gridders

Duke, Irish, Minnesota Unbeaten at Last Game.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK—(AP)—It's the end of the glory road today for a majority of the collegiate football teams and nowhere will the sunset be more welcome than at Duke, Notre Dame and Minnesota, where unbeaten elevens prevailed at dawn.

Each club is playing its last scheduled game against a reckless rival, Duke meeting North Carolina State, Notre Dame host to Southern California, and Minnesota seeking its 17th straight from point-crazy Wisconsin.

* * *

All three of the unbeaten elevens are favored but the Irish still remember 1938 when they entered the Trojan fray without a blemish and were blanked. Upsets have not been as recent in the other two rivalries.

* * *

The day also provides the Harvard-Yale perennial, Bob Zuppke's final appearance as the Illinois coach in the meeting with Northwestern, St. Mary's intersectional clash with Fordham, Alabama vs. Vanderbilt and the Cornell meeting with Pennsylvania, where a sellout throng of 74,000 is expected.

The southwest has two top-ranking affairs, Texas Christian hoping to increase its title chances by whipping Rice and Baylor tangling with Southern Methodist. Arkansas, also of the southwest circuit, visits Mississippi.

* * *

Purdue's spat with Indiana for the old oaken bucket and Iowa's invasion of Nebraska in the cornbelt classic are midwest contests that refused to be submerged by the Notre Dame-Trojan or Illinois-Northwestern games and by Ohio State's invasion of Michigan.

* * *

Missouri would clinch the Big Six title by subduing Kansas. Washington, still retaining Rose Bowl hopes, opposes Oregon, and Oregon State hopes to smack over Montana in such fashion that the Pasadena nod will come to it.

Next to the Duke finale, the Alabama-Vanderbilt tussle holds the attention of the south.

Navy goes against an upcoming Princeton Tiger in the east, and Army meets the equally improving West Virginia Mountaineers as a prelude to the service clash next week. Pitt hopes to make it three in a row, with Penn State the victim, the Panthers buoyed by knowing that the invaders haven't won in the Smoky City since 1919.

Overlin Wins Hostak Bout

Loser Kept Going With Oxygen Tank In Corner.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Seldom has any ranking fighter received a more thorough, more humiliating beating than was handed out to Al Hostak, former N. B. A. middleweight champion, by the veteran Ken Overlin last night at Madison Square Garden.

Making his debut in New York, the Seattle, Wash., battler was completely outclassed, losing all but possibly one round of 10. Overlin, former New York state middleweight king, had astonishingly easy picking.

* * *

Given an artificial spur by an oxygen tank in his corner, Hostak answered every bell by storming out and trying to knock the wily Overlin's head off. For about a minute, usually less, he fought furiously, swinging wildly and mostly missing.

SNAVELY SIGNS AS CORNELL COACH AGAIN

ITHACA, N. Y. —(INS)— Carl Snavely today looked forward to his seventh season as head coach of Cornell's football team.

University authorities last night announced that Snavely would continue in his post during 1942.

Cornell teams have won 26 games, and lost 10 during the Snavely regime.

Buckeyes Face These Backfield Stars

Here's that Michigan backfield Ohio State's Buckeyes try to stop today. Left to right, Paul White, George Ceithaml, Captain Bob Westfall, rated the best fullback in the Big Ten, and Tommy Kuzma, Michigan's choice as a successor to the great Tommy Harmon.

Gophers Set For Badgers

Minnesota to Take Big 10 Title With Win.

By EARL HILLIGAN

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—(AP)—Minnesota's powerfully armed Gophers turned their biggest guns on Wisconsin today and one of football's most highly prized doubles—the Big Ten and national championships.

* * *

Winner of 16 straight victories in a streak begun in 1939, Minnesota was favored to wind up its second straight season in possession of the Western conference crown and first place in the Associated Press national rankings poll.

* * *

There were many, however, who refused to tab Minnesota as an easy "shoo in" against the high scoring Badgers led by the redoubtable sophomore, Pat (Hit 'em) Harder. The lithe smashing ability of Harder, combined with the all around talents of Dave Schreiner, end, and the passing ability of Bud Seelinger, had not a few persons talking of an upset.

* * *

The weather may have a lot to do with the outcome. The forecast said high winds and snow were probable and on a slushy, gale swept gridiron could come the break which might send the Gopher football fortress crumbling. More than 50,000 fans were expected for the season's finale. The Gophers were in the finest physical fettle in several weeks.

Army Postpones Hank's Release

FORT CUSTER, Mich.—(INS)—Sergt. Hank Greenberg, former Detroit outfielder, will be released from the army as soon as fifth division headquarters "can get to his case," officers said today.

Greenberg was originally slated to have been released next Monday but yesterday it was announced his release has been postponed. He is eligible for release because he is over 28 years of age.

Anemia Hits Grid Clubs

Physician Says Lack Of Food Dangerous.

DENVER—(AP)—Anemia, often resulting from the lack of money to buy proper food, is the worst foe of many college football players, a University of Denver physician reported today.

Dr. Broda O. Barnes, head of the university's health and physical department, said the amputations of legs and arms resulting from football injuries usually are linked with anemic conditions which hasten infection.

"A great many players are seriously anemic because they don't eat a balanced diet," he said. "This in turn is traceable to the player's financial condition.

"He just can't afford to buy the food he requires to compensate for the strain on his system that football imposes. I'm convinced that every college should have a training table where the players may get well-balanced meals.

Wolves Rate 10 to 7 Favorites Over Ohio

Brown Admits Buckeyes Have Been Pointing All Season For Game

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(AP)—The Ohio State university Buckeyes and Michigan's Wolverines clashed here today in their annual football classic before a sellout crowd of more than 85,000 fans, probably the nation's largest grid gathering of the day.

Coach Fritz Crisler's Michiganders were rated 10-7 favorites but experts agreed that the outcome of the contest depended as much on spirit as on team strength and conceded the Ohioans a good chance to cop the 38th battle between the two schools.

* * *

The struggle will determine second place honors in the Western conference, or, if Minnesota should lose to Wisconsin, will give the winner a share of the championship.

* * *

The fact that the odds were against his Bucks made little difference to Coach Paul E. Brown, who forsook the high school coaching ranks this year to take over Ohio State.

"We like to go into a game as the underdog," said Brown, "and we're sure ready for this one."

Just what he meant by that, the Buck coach didn't say, but reports from Ohio the past week indicated that the former Massillon (O.) high school mentor was prepared to spring an entirely new offensive against the Wolverines if necessary.

* * *

Brown admitted that Michigan's forward wall was superior to Ohio's "man-for-man," but word from Ohio's capital indicated the Bucks weren't figuring too hard on trying to pierce that stubborn Michigan line.

* * *

All week long the Bucks have drilled overtime on passes, and Brown, himself, indicated that his club had been "under wraps" most of the season.

"We've been pointing for this one," he said.

Brown's only worry seemed to be Jack Graf, key offensive cog, who still was limping on an injured knee in yesterday's final workouts. "We figured on Graf to handle the punting, but he'll start whether he can kick or not," Brown asserted.

Graf's loss as a punter would handicap the Bucks defensively, but the return of Lin Houston, sensational sophomore guard who has missed the last two games because of injuries, was expected to offset this advantage.

* * *

Michigan, on the other hand, was in top shape physically, and Coach Crisler was confident that his club, which lost only to Minnesota in seven previous games, could handle the Bucks.

* * *

At least one-fifth of today's crowd—some 17,000—were fans from the Buckeye state and Ann Arbor police recruited officers from neighboring cities to handle the overflow thousands.

The weather bureau promised ideal weather at kickoff time, 2 p. m., with the mercury hovering between 30 and 40 degrees and "a few flakes of snow."

Galion Jaycees Hit Load-Up

Say Mansfield City News Needed Outside Stars.

Charges of "load-up" flew thick and fast today between the gridiron camps of the Mansfield City News and Galion Jaycees, who battle for the second time tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at Galion.

* * *

The Jaycees suffered their only defeat in an eight-game schedule last Sunday at the hands of the City News 13 to 0, and immediately came the charge from Galion: "Yeah, you had to import some outside stars to do it."

* * *

As a matter of fact the City News did have an outside star in the lineup, and he gave the Jaycees a large-sized headache all afternoon. Floyd Southard, former Columbus star, now in Massillon, was signed by the Mansfield club two weeks ago when they made their trip to Minerva.

The Mansfielders knew Southard well. He's the Columbus boy who ran back a kickoff against them from his own goal line a year ago. They tried to get him at the first of the season and couldn't find him.

Now the City News management hears that Galion is loading up for tomorrow's game. They haven't investigated the report, but they are confident of repeating the victory of last Sunday.

* * *

Coach Earl McMullen of the Mansfield team isn't so optimistic. "We were lucky they didn't score against us last Sunday," declares McMullen. "They were inside our 10-yard line often enough. All they needed was to connect on a pass at the right time."

The return game will be Mansfield's home tilt. Unable to obtain a field here in Mansfield for a Sunday game, the City News was glad to accept Galion's offer of the free use of its field. The only expense to Mansfield will be the paying of the officials.

TROOPS SMASH OUT OF TOBRUK; ARMIES TRAPPED

British Split Axis Forces In Sweeping North African Drive.

their baptism of fire with "flying colors," playing a major part in the destruction of the 220 Axis armored fighting machines thus far reported.

The Germans, attempting desperately to stem the British advance, were reported rushing in reinforcements by fleets of Junkers JU-52 transport planes from their big bases in western Libya and by glider trains from Crete.

Reports from the British general headquarters and correspondents in the western desert gave this picture of the offensive thus far:

1—Rommel's panzer divisions divided and cut off by British armored spearheads which have repulsed all Nazi efforts to break out of encirclement. One German panzer division trapped in the Bardia area has suffered heavy losses in a battle with U. S. made tanks. The second imperiled in the Tobruk region.

2—Italy's Ariete armored division virtually knocked out of the battle after an encounter with the British in which it lost 57 of its 135 tanks.

3—A total of 130 German tanks, 33 German armored cars and 57 Italian tanks destroyed in armored combat thus far; 51 Axis war planes shot down with a loss of only 13 British machines.

4—British forces either in contact or about to make contact with the besieged Tobruk garrison by land for the first time since the embattled force was besieged by the Axis last April 12.

5—The RAF, using American and British planes in a ratio of about 50-50, ruling the blue sky with "a canopy of planes."

6—British tank losses running at a ratio of only one to three Axis armored machines, leaving a huge margin of superiority to be employed in the mop-up of the shattered Axis forces.

There was increasing belief here that the offensive which has been in progress only a little more than 100 hours, already has the Axis on the run.

The initial British success, it was reported, was won in four big tank battles, three fought largely with American 13-ton light M-3 tanks.

British columns, crossing the Libya-Egypt frontier like steel fingers, drove wedges between the main panzer forces of the Germans and Italians.

One of these columns, made up entirely of American tanks swung up the coastal road about 45 miles east of Fort Capuzzo, cutting off a large Nazi tank force, probably about one division, in the Gambut-Bardia region.

The American tanks fought the German forces in two battles, knocking out 26 German machines in the first encounter and 34 in the second with a loss of only 20 machines.

The Germans attempted yesterday to break out of this encirclement but were beaten back three times

Simultaneously another column, swinging farther east, headed for the coast through Rezegh, 10 miles south of Tobruk.

Battle's Going Fine British Declare

LONDON —(INS)— British military authorities jubilantly announced today that the huge battle in Libya between British and Axis mechanized forces is "going fine" for the British

This announcement was based on latest dispatches from the North African war front to London.

Authorities categorically declined to speculate on the exact number of German tanks knocked out of action in the fighting. A Cairo announcement previously said one-half of the Axis tank strength in Libya had been wrecked by British-manned American-built tanks.

Authorities said it must be remembered that enemy tank division strength in Africa is "probably much smaller" than the strength the Germans used in France or now are using in Russia.

Italians Claim British Losses

ROME—(INS)—Heavy losses inflicted on British men and materiels in the Libyan desert were announced by the Italian high command in a war communique today.

The communique said the north African battle was resumed at dawn yesterday and "continued throughout the day with fierceness."

"The air forces of the Axis powers engaged opposing enemy forces in hard fighting and inflicted on them considerably new losses in men and materials," the communique stated.

Desert Won't Decide War, Nazis Declare

BERLIN —(INS)— "A few square kilometers of desert" will not decide the war, the official German radio declared today.

The radio warned the British to await the outcome of the battle in North Africa before claiming any victories.

Hurricane Which Hit New England Cost Huge Sum

BOSTON—(INS)—In addition to its toll of 588 lives, the New England hurricane of September 21, 1938, cost this section $300,000,000, according to an estimate by Delcevare King, Quincy banker.

King based his compilation on figures of the United States Department of Agriculture, the American Red Cross and the New England telephone and telegraph company.

The figures show 18,731 buildings were destroyed.

The Red Cross, according to King, listed 588 persons killed or missing. That organization aided 13,446 families following the hurricane.

The New England Telephone and Telegraph company reported 604,000 telephones were knocked out of service by the "big wind," which reached a sustained velocity of 121 miles an hour. Gusts brought a maximum velocity of 183 miles an hour, according to authorities at Blue Hills Observatory.

industrial plants—the Stalin Tractor factory and the Mikoyan Shoe factory.

In addition, it was stated, a number of factories producing fighting planes are situated at Rostov, which is connected by a canal with the Volga river.

Growing Battle Rages Near Moscow

KUIBYCHEV —(INS)— A mighty battle of ever-increasing proportions raged on the blood-soaked approaches to Moscow today as the Germans unleashed a savage offensive against the beleaguered capital.

So titanic was the battle that the Communist newspaper Pravda described it as "probably the biggest" of the entire Russian campaign.

According to Pravda, the Germans attacked yesterday on all Moscow's defense sectors, using large forces of tanks and infantry.

The Germans hurled their mechanized forces and foot troops forward on the Volokolamsk and Kalinin sectors of a new pincer maneuver.

Soviet forces were reported fighting "incessantly" to stem the Nazi tide.

Pravda said a tank battle in the Volokolamsk area lasted 20 hours and admitted that at some points the Red army forces were forced to retreat.

Taking up positions at new lines, the account said, the Russions fortified themselves and then checked the enemy drive by means of counter-attack.

London Hears Raid On Moscow

LONDON—(INS)—A German air raid on Moscow was broadcast by the official Soviet radio today.

Radio listeners in London heard bomb explosions and the familiar crackle of anti-aircraft barrages. One Nazi raider was shot down during the broadcast.

GENERAL SLAIN

Nazis Say Infantry Commander Killed In East Front.

BERLIN — (AP) — The German high command announced today that General Kurt Von Briesen, a Nazi infantry commander, was killed on the eastern front Thursday.

The 58-year-old German infantry general met a soldier's death in a fight against the same enemy as his father, who died on an Austrian battlefield in 1914.

He was born May 3, 1883, and served in the World war as a captain on the German general staff. He was wounded in Poland and was decorated with the Knight's Cross to the Iron Cross for his service in that campaign.

Train Conductor Ends 56 Years of Railroad Work

NEW YORK—(INS)—Conductor Thomas Gullen, 70, has made his last run on the Twentieth Century Limited.

After 56 years with the New York Central Railroad, Gullen the other day pulled the whistle for the last time to send the New York to Chicago flyer on its way. It was his final trip on his regular run between New York and Buffalo—a round trip he made twice a week for the past five years.

Gullen, whose home is in Rochester, plans to travel while retired. Yes, he is planning an automobile trip through the west, with sight-seeing in the Rockies before heading north for a tour of Canada.

Traveling also is his hobby. During spare time, Gullen is a devotee of horseback riding.

He started his long railroad career with the New York Central as a messenger boy in Rochester in 1885. The son of a freight conductor, Gullen took over a similar job in 1900 after serving as a switch tender, car chalker and freight brakeman.

Miss Armor was born July 2, 1854, a daughter of Thomas and Amanda Eleanor Waddell Armor. Four sisters survive, Mrs. L. C. Ohl of Long Beach, Calif., Mrs. Mary Brown, Mrs. A. B. Howard and Miss Jessie Armor, at home.

PROVES INSURANCE SELLING NOT STRICTLY A MAN'S JOB

(By International News Service)

CINCINNATI, O. — Wherever insurance folk gather for their annual Million Dollar Round Table Conference there are 170 chairs but only 169 men to fill them.

The last place is reserved for Mrs. Sis Hoffman, demure, brown-haired Cincinnatian and only one of her sex ever to sell $1,000,000 or more in life insurance annually.

The Million Dollar Round Table Conference is always held at the same times as the yearly convention of the National Association of Life Underwriters.

Only those who have sold $1,000,000 in policies the previous year are entitled to attend. Those who have sold $1,000,000 worth for three years win permanent membership.

Mrs. Hoffman sat in this year for the second time. She sold $1,000,000 worth last year and the year before. Her total for this year has already passed $700,000. Her schedule is such that it will put her over the top soon for the third time.

Asked how she does that volume of business she said:

"I specialize in women clients.

"Women have so much inherited wealth and many of them have such fine incomes and control so much property that insurance is just as important as it is for men.

"They have to meet heavy inheritance and other taxes and to provide for distribution of their own wealth to those close to them. Like men, they feel insurance offers a way of providing liquid cash to meet obligations and to avoid selling securities or property below its value in order to pay taxes."

She believes an insurance agent's greatest assets are confidence in himself, a thorough knowledge of his own business and an inner conviction that the propositios being made to the prospect are genuinely for that person's own good.

Mrs. Hoffman epitomizes these factors as "faith, courage and helpfulness." She insists that she could more easily live without food than without the philosophy for which they form the foundation.

A native of Cincinnati, Mrs. Hoffman began er business life as a telephone company bookkeeper. She switched to insurance 17 years ago. A daughter, Peggy, 22, is an artist, but Lorraine, 20, intends to follow in her mother's footsteps.

Famous Hiking Turtle Proves To Be a 'Phoney'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(INS)—The truth of the famous walking turtle that supposedly hiked from Texas to California is now known—it didn't walk that far.

When Mrs. W. G. William of Ontario, Calif., went to her garden one day last June she found the little animal taking its ease. On its hard shell was painted, "Helen Robins San Antonio, Texas."

The excited lady phoned the newspapers and before long California scribes were telling the tale of the walking turtle which they figured must have covered about 1,400 miles.

Back in San Antonio Helen Robbins turned out to be the lady friend of a soldier boy who went on leave last spring and started for California in his car. Somewhere in Arizona he bought the reptile and painted Helen's name on it. Once in California the turtle decided to really use its own motive power and off across the Golden State it crawled.

But the tortoise did some traveling at that.

GALION CHURCH GROUP TO HOLD BAZAAR DEC. 13

Presbyterian Guild Completes Plans at Meeting Friday.

GALION—With Mrs. Roy Sharrock presiding, plans were made for a supper and bazaar, Dec. 13, at the First Presbyterian church, when the Ladies' Guild held its monthly meeting Friday afternoon at the church.

The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. Ross Shull. The program was arranged by Mrs. Frank Duffy. Piano numbers were played by Joan Mitchell, Joan Baxter and Joanne Carmel.

Those who served the supper at the close were Mrs. F. C. McGaughy, Mrs. R. E. Hill, Mrs. Belle Riddle, Mrs. John Shumaker and Mrs. J. B. Sweeney.

* * *

A Thanksgiving program was presented at the meeting of the Junior American Legion auxiliary, Friday afternoon, in Scarbrough post rooms. Betty Kester presided for the meeting.

For the program, Mrs. Charles Tracht read a story, and a Thanksgiving prayer was offered by Mrs. George Lisse. The girls spent some of the time in rehearsing the new ritual service.

They planned a Christmas party for Dec. 19, and a business meeting on Dec. 5.

Mystery Comedy.

The "Thin Man" is on the loose again in the William Powell-Myrna Loy co-starring feature, "Shadow of the Thin Man," showing at the Ohio. In this latest adventure of the family of Detective Nick Charles, played by Powell, the action starts at a race track where a jockey is found dead. Before long the detective has no less than three murders to solve in addition to an attractive wife who unwittingly insists on embarrassing him. Young Dickie Hall appears as the four-year-old son of the couple Barry Nelson and Sam Levine are others in the fast-moving comedy.

JAPANESE BALK AT AXIS SPLIT

Hull, Insisting on Four Other Major Points, to Confer With British Today.

Tokyo might be willing to let the Axis alliance become a dead letter as part of a general understanding with this country, the Japanese government is reluctant to renounce the pact outright.

Secretary Hull, however, is understood to be insisting on such renunciation as essential to any general understanding.

The three other principles on which he is insistent are:

1—Abandonment of the policy of aggressive expansion in the Far East;

2—Withdrawal of Japanese forces from China and French Indo-China;

3—Equality of commercial opportunity for all nations in the Pacific.

There is understood to have been some discussion of a limited agreement providing for the withdrawal of Japanese forces from French Indo-China in return for a partial relaxation of the American economic embargo on Japan.

New Dancing Duo.

They're in the army now, meaning Fred Astaire and Rita Hayworth, teamed together for the first time in "You'll Never Get Rich," the Cole Porter musical show playing at the Madison. Ballet is combined with boogie woogie in this production of a Broadway dance director who enlists in the army to evade such a beauty as Rita Hayworth. The story is secondary to the dancing of Astaire and his new partner who was actually christened Rita Casino, a daughter of the famous Spanish dancing family. Robert Benchley and John Hubbard are in the cast. "Ladies in Retirement," the second picture, has Ida Lupino, Louis Hayward, Evelyn Keyes and Elsa Lanchester in the cast.

* * *

Ice Spectacle.

Sonja Henie's gay ice spectacle, "Sun Valley Serenade," opens Sunday at the Ritz. Glen Miller and his orchestra had a major spot in the picture and John Payne plays opposite the blond skating star. The second picture, "Bad Men of Missouri," features Dennis Morgan, Jane Wyman and Wayne Morris.

* * *

Vienna Atmosphere.

Presenting the star as a peasant maid who goes to Vienna in search of the destiny foretold by a gypsy "Spring Parade," Deanna Durbin's picture at the Park, features Robert Cummings, Mischa Auer and Henry Stephenson. Amid romantic surroundings the village girl falls in love with a young officer and the picture follows their adventures over a bumpy road of complications. The star sings several Viennese numbers including "Blue Danube Dream." Kay Harris has the title role in "Tillie the Toiler," the co-attraction.

'Sunny' Opens Sunday.

"Sunny," Anna Neagel's starring vehicle adapted from the New York musical comedy, opens Sunday at the Majestic. Based on the romance of a young dancer in the New Orleans Mardi Gras and a socialite the picture presents the dancing of Ray Bolger, the Hartmans and gives John Carroll to the star for a leading man. "Passage From Hongkong," is the second atraction.

LOUISE KOCHHEISER WED IN JOHNSVILLE

Miss Kochheiser and Walter Bowers Exchange Vows on Thanksgiving Day In Parsonage of Johnsville Evangelical Church.

MISS LOUISE KOCHHEISER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Kochheiser, South Main street road, exchanged nuptial vows on Nov. 20 with Walter Bowers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Bowers of Bellville. Rev. W. B. Smith performed the single ring service at 11 a. m. in the parsonage of the Evangelical church in Johnsville.

For her wedding the bride was attired in a brown and beige crepe street length frock with brown accessories and wore a single strand of pearls. Her shoulder corsage was of yellow roses. Mr. and Mrs. William Nye and Miss Lucille Kochheiser attended the couple. Mrs. Nye, who is a sister of the bridegroom, wore a navy blue street length frock with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses and white chrysanthemums. Miss Kochheiser, sister of the bride, was attired in a black and white ensemble with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Following the wedding a dinner was served to the bridal couple and members of the immediate families at the home of the bride's parents. The long table was decorated with tall lighted tapers and centered with a two tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple. Mrs. Bowers is a graduate of Bellville high school and has been employed at the Martin Steel Products corporation. Mr. Bowers attended Bellville schools and is employed at the Colby and Earick incorporation.

BIBLE CLUB.

Mrs. E. Ray Jenkins conducted the lesson study on the fifth chapter of Hebrew at the meeting of the Neighborhood Bible Study club held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jay Swigart, 556 West Third street. Devotions were led by Mrs. S. H. Garrison. Eleven members were in attendance. Mrs. D. L. Arehart will be hostess for the Christmas party to be held on Dec. 5 at her home on the Millsboro road.

Apples contain over 80 per cent water so add little water when cooking them. A dash of salt improves all apple dishes.

Veterans Night Party Planned

Plans for a Veteran's night party to be held on Nov. 30 at the North Lake park pavilion were made at the meeting of the Sarah Pfiefer Auxiliary, No. 4 held recently. This party will be in celebration of the anniversary of the sons and the auxiliary and also veterans night. Dinner will be served at 5:30 p. m. Mrs. Elsie Trisler, president, was hostess for the meeting at her home on Johns avenue.

On Dec. 1 Mrs. Jane Beelman will motor to Wooster to be the inspecting officer of the Wooster chapter. Dec. 4 the Ashland chapter will hold their inspection with Mrs. Katherine Sattler as the inspecting officer. The local auxiliary will hold inspection on Dec. 3 at the court house.

Busy Bee Club Plans Parties

Mrs. Charles Wingert entertained members of the Busy Bee club at her home on South Foster street recently. Mrs. Bessie Sheets was the associate hostess. Mrs. Mae Diesem, president, conducted the business session. Plans were made to hold a Christmas party on Dec. 15 at North Lake park pavilion.

Bunco was the diversion of the evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. Mary Somers, Mrs. Clyde Charles and Mrs. Nellie Antes. A two course luncheon was served at small tables decorated with Christmas appointments. Mrs. Cloyd Fox is the hostess for the next meeting which will be held on Dec. 4 at her home on the South Main street road. Mrs. Clara Calver will be the associate hostess.

Murphy, westernmost town in North Carolina, long land-locked, will soon find itself a lake city. Water from Hiawassee dam will back several miles right up to the city limits.

Piano Recital Given By Pupils Of Ethele Duffy

First piano recital to be presented by the pupils of Ethele Duffy (Mrs. J. H. Duffy), was that given for a capacity audience at the Women's Club last evening. The eight young artists were assisted by Elfriede Jundt, soprano, voice student of Mrs. Walter Jameson, and Miss Arlu Pugh, pianist.

Piano solos were played by Carol Lee Blust, Margie Volz, Patsy Moore, Beverly Brissel, Mae Ruth McMillan, Joan Scott, Yvonne Crafts and Mary McMillan. For the concluding number on the program, Miss Pugh and Mrs. Duffy played two selections for four hands.

Miss Jundt, whose accompaniment was furnished by Mrs. Duffy, sang "None But the Lonely Heart," by Tschaikonsky, with the German by Goethe; "The Star," by Rogers, "My Lovely Celia," by Higgins; and "Morning," by Speaks.

Club Plans Hike Sunday Afternoon

Business and Professional Women's club members will meet at the court house at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon to go to the Fresh Air camp, through the courtesy of Friendly House. The camp is located on the Little Washington road. Miss Catherine Riggs, chairman of the health and recreation committee for the B. and P. W., is in charge of arrangements for the outing.

Members who have signified intention of going include the Misses Grace Bonnell, Mabel Koppes, Marjorie High, Mary Gruber, Dorothy Claus, Pearl Wierman, Virginia Dye, Dorothea Garver, Clara Miller, Mabel Charles, Grace Wilson, Martha McFarland, Florence Cairns and Marian Simmons.

SISTERHOOD MEETS.

Hostess to the Sisterhood of Mary and Martha society of the First Brethren church last evening was Miss Darlene Craig, 139 Chilton avenue. Devotional service was led by Miss Wanda Beal. Routine business was discussed. Miss Craig was appointed leader for the next meeting which will be held at the home of Miss Greta Adams, 182 West Fourth street, on Dec. 19. This will be the society's Christmas party.

WOMEN SEE DANGER

RICHMOND, Va.—(AP)—Government restrictions on installment buying may boomerang against the defense effort, the Richmond Housewives' League warned.

Mrs. A. Milton Eike, presenting a resolution, pointed out that women are so often called upon to do national defense work that home labor saving devices such as washing machines and vacuum-cleaners are needed more than ever to allow housewives the extra time.

This situation may call for quick grasp and clever manipulation with energy and initiative but with restraint of tongue and temper. Also be keen toward snares, swindles and betrayals.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of splendid prospect of fulifilling their loftiest ambitions, private and business, with expanding power, prestige and popularity. Swift action should be taken to this goal, with skill and energy, but alertness to fraud, intrigues, pitfalls and plots. In all such keep the tongue and temper and act with sagacity and restraint.

A child born on this day should have a very ambitious nature, with much adaptability, ingenuity and energy to back up its highest aspirations. It will be generous, warmhearted and popular as well.

Make-Up Should Be Applied to Neck and Face

By MAX FACTOR, JR.
Famous Hollywood Make-Up Specialist Writing For International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD—When applying make-up, don't forget that your neck and throat areas are immediately adjoining continuations of your face; therefore, they should be made-up accordingly.

A made-up face which abruptly progresses to an unmade-up neck doesn't provide a very attractive appearance effect. Nor is a perfectly made-up face, combined with an obviously imperfectly made-up neck, very much on the glamorous side.

Too many women are addicted to the practice of making-up their faces completely and perfectly, and then only temporarily blotting out the color discrepancy between their made-up faces and their unmade-up necks by quickly touching up the latter with an unaided application of face powder.

For a very brief space of time, this make-shift device may serve the desired appearance purpose.

Eventually, however, the powder applied to the neck surface will lose its smoothness, as powder applied to any unrepared surface has a tendency to do. No powder will adhere perfectly to the face unless the way has been paved for it with make-up foundation, nor will it adhere to the neck without a preliminary application of either make-up foundation or make-up blender.

For ordinary sport or street wear dresses, with necks that come fairly high, very young women can prepare the neck and throat for further make-up merely by extending the facial application of make-up foundation to these surfaces.

Women who are past the bloom of youth, however, can generally flatter their appearance to a greater degree by continuing to use the make-up foundation for their faces and then using make-up blender for the neck and throat.

This is because the neck and throat skin usually darkens as the years pass. Make-up foundation has no color tones which will counteract this natural skin darkness of the neck in the final make-up appearance. Make-up blender, however, does have such color tones.

Chosen in a correct shade, this latter beauty aid can lighten the appearance of even the most darkened neck skin, and make it perfectly complement the complexion of the made-up face.

If make-up blender is used, it should be applied to the neck and throat only after you have made-up your face. This gives you an opportunity to perfectly match the color tones of the former with the latter.

Kennedy-Frye Vows Read In Napoleon

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kennedy, 147 Arthur avenue, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Doris Marie, to Richard Earl Frye, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Frye, 360 West Fourth street. The couple was married on June 8 in Napoleon. Mrs. Frye is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and is employed at the Humphryes Manufacturing company. Mr. Frye is also a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and is employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. The couple is residing at 130½ Ford street.

Household Hints

1—Never skimp on the butter and filling for sandwiches. See that it reaches clear over to edges of the bread slices. The crusts, too, will then have more appeal.

2—Shred or break lettuce apart before putting it into sandwiches.

3—Cut each sandwich into halves or three strips, press together again to keep moist and in shape. Wrap firmly.

4—Dried beef, spread with cottage cheese and minced lettuce, rolled up, and fastened with wood picks, gives an extra meat treat. Put four in the lunch box.

5—Marshmallow-topped ginger drop cakes make delicious sweets. About five mintues before the cakes are done, draw the pan to the edge of the oven and lightly top each with a marshmallow and a few broken nuts. Return to the oven to finish baking.

6—Baked apples, stuffed with raisins or dates and nuts and fitted into jelly glasses is a dessert easy to carry and very nutritious.

Mica was one of the finest minerals mined in North Carolina. Tons of debris on the site of ancient dumps testify to extensive operations by Indians in western North Carolina.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

My father jerked his head toward me, at Harry Underwood's encomium, and I flushed painfully, for I had told him no word of my part in the capture of the three gangsters.

"What's all this?" he asked. But I interposed firmly.

"All that can wait," I said. "But Harry must be taken upstairs to a bed at once, so that he can be cared for properly. And we ought to have a surgeon, not only for Harry but for two of the gangsters."

"I thought so," my father said with a glance of approval at his friend and aide. "I knew you must have left your mark on the rats. Everything else must wait on surgical aid. Miss Whitlock, will you tell these men what you wish done?"

Sends Lillian Upstairs.

But first Miss Whitlock looked at Lillian.

"Will you get a hospital bed ready in your husband's room as soon as possible?" she asked.

'Jim, go with Mrs. Underwood," my father directed. "You can help her with everything."

Lillian bent over her husband, kissed him tenderly, and then without a word went up the stairs.

Miss Whitlock looked after her, gave a little sign and spoke regretfully to Harry.

"Sorry to send her away," she said, "but she wasn't reacting just the way I'd like. I'm afraid we'll be hurting you a little."

"Don't bother about that a bit," the big man said. "But I want to tell the Chief some things. Do I have to have more dope before I talk?"

"Not if you make your talk brief," she said.

"Then," Harry Underwood turned to me, "in the first place, Lady Fair, am I dreaming, or did you tell me you dragged into the jam closet that man I knocked cold as he came through the window?"

"No, you weren't dreaming," I said sedately. "That's why I told you."

"Then," and Harry Underwood turned to my father, "three of 'em came through the basement window. One I knocked cold, the second got me in the arm at the same time as I got him in the leg, and I got the jump on the third, so he didn't have a chance to shoot.

"Madge frisked them as thoroughly as she could, but they may have something hidden on them."

He held out his key ring to my father. It had been clutched in his hand ever since he slumped to the floor. Then he went on quickly.

"I imagine the leader in the jam closet is still out cold. At any rate he isn't making any fuss. Did you frisk him, Madge?"

"I didn't take time for a thorough job," I replied, "but I found another gun."

"I'll lay a little bet that's all he had," Harry Underwood said, and then Miss Whitlock intervened.

"Just one minute more," she warned.

"I shan't need it," he said. "There's the layout, Chief. But tell your men to be careful when you shake them out."

Surgeon To Treat Bandits.

"Do you object if I turn your basement in to a temporary hospital?" my father asked.

"Do whatever you like," the big man said. "But I thought you'd want to get them down to the hideaway."

"We can't very well get three of 'em out in the daylight," my father returned. "We must wait until late tonight. And two of them need surgical attention."

"I'll tell the world, they do," Harry retorted. Then Miss Whitlock beckoned to the men who had spread out the stretcher and were standing by it.

"Help me get Mr. Underwood on the stretcher," she said. "Do exactly as I tell you. And, if you please," as she turned to her patient with a sympathetic smile, "you will stop telling the world, or any part of it, anything more until after we get you safely into bed in your own room."

CHAPTER XXIX

The people here in the ampitheater were a little stunned by Buck McMurray's generosity. His gift of $10,000 cash and 1,000 head of cattle came as a complete surprise, even though Dr. Palmer had been asking for an endowment fund.

"Whe-euw!" a newspaper reporter exclaimed, breaking the electric silence after McMurray sat down.

There was no outburst of cheering or applause. Only a wave of murmuring, in awed tone. But the short interval gave Dr. Palmer time to collect his own wits. Master psychologist, he was thinking fast now! He remembered certain things Buck McMurray and others had told him in days past, little carelessly dropped hints about Arizona and its people. In just a moment, therefore, he was speaking again, calmly, levelly, as if the gift was entirely normal.

"You are kindness itself, Mr. McMurray," he said, into the microphone. "I knew that we could depend on the desert country ranchers, the men in the southern part of the state here! Loyalty to high ideals has been a part of their very rearing. And—"

"WHOA UP, there, President Palmer, sir!"

Another man had risen. He waved his hat to command attention, and he had it instantly.

"Listen here, sir, what Buck done is all right, but what you say about the south-state ranchers—why hell's-for-torment, man, they ain't nothing like us up-country folk! Now I'm a Rim man. I own 72,000 acres between Flagstaff and the Mogollon Rim. I own 48,000 more, under the Bar Z Bar brand, over by Fort Apache. I got two daughters in this school m'self. I got sons coming up. We run up to 50,000 head of pure Hereford stock. Mr. President, sir, I'll just double Buck McMurray's cash ante and throw in 5,000 prime steers!"

"EE-YEOW!" Some cowboy gave that outburst.

* * *

Instantly pandemonium reigned. The mass meeting was a shrieking, shouting, hand-clapping, hat-and-hand-waving mob. A full two minutes elapsed before Dr. Palmer could command quiet again and continue the meeting.

He didn't have much more to do, actually. He had touched just the right fuse—the south-country desert ranchers against the men who lived in the more wooded expanses that make up the northern part of the state. There has long been a friendly, rivalry, both political and sentimental.

Rancher Travis Cox spoke next. Then Bull Hanes from Prescott, Roby Goff from his Star Bar ranch away over in Mohave county, both the Jett boys from down near Yuma and old man Slaughter from the wild Chiricahuas. The widow Drane from Safford spoke up with a gift of $5,000 payable at once and $5,000 in six months. Then the Daggett brothers, owners of vast holdings in three southwestern states, with headquarters at Tucson, conferred a minute and donated a cool quarter of a million dollars to the university endowment fund.

'We c'n pay it to the college or pay it in taxes!" big Tim Daggett roared, grinning broadly. "I ain't never had no schoolin' myself. I aim for the younguns to git some!"

"Check and tally!" his brother said. "Let's make this a real cow country school. I'll bet any man a thousand dollars Frontier can beat Notre Dame in football inside of two years!"

That all but wrecked the meeting.

With the mass of people roaring above them, Polly turned to Joy Boone there at her side. "For Pete's sake, Joy! Football excitement even before boys are admitted to the school."

The two girls, with Ken and Ward, had been sitting in front just under the edge of the headhigh stage that formed the crux of the great natural theater here in shadow Canyon. The theater was back and up a ways from the university buildings proper. Polly saw Ken gazing down at the administration building. His face had a rapt look.

"It—it totals nearly a million dollars already!" he breathed near to Polly's ear. "And they're still pledging. Dad will be crazy with happiness."

"So am I," Polly answered.

* * *

He put a hand on her shoulder, as if on thoughtless impulse. "One does get to love his school! You think a lot of Frontier, don't you Polly? Can't blame you. I—I've been a lost sheep; only boy in the student body. But now—now—next fall they can admit hundreds of boys! I shall organize the first Frontier frat! It won't be snobbish, either; it will admit only the boys who can ride and shoot and rope and—and—"

"You intend to make it a rodeo fraternity?" Polly teased a bit.

"What if I do?" Ken shot back. "There's something solid and good about the western tradition, Polly! You told me that yourself. I have found it so. Fellows like your brother, and—"

"Sh-h-h-h, your dad's speaking again."

Dr. Palmer was almost in tears now. His voice was husky, so that he had to say his thanks all too briefly lest he quite lose control.

"— and now please go on with the election," he concluded. "Go on with the lighter side. If any people ever earned the right to a fiesta, you have! You have shown great generosity, a noble spirit in the serious things. It is now time to have our fun. Will —will some one—some one please take the microphone!"

The huge audience sounded a hubbub of murmuring and talking again. Dr. Palmer had touched them deeply; mass meeting sentiment had held away here. Their subdued tones of approval were more powerful than any formal applause would have been.

The girl president of the Frontier student body, Leona Donaldson, was to have been chairman of the meeting, and she stepped toward the microphone now. It was she who would hear nominations for the fiesta queen. But in front of her, on the very edge of the wide rostrum there, was a sudden clambering.

"Why Ward!" Polly gasped, from her seat down below.

He had left them without warning and hadn't even gone around the side to the steps. He just vaulted up onto the high stage in a sort of foot and hand spring, paused there in full view of the thousands and dusted off his trousers and his cowboy boots, then walked to the microphone. His face was very serious, firm. The girl Leona stared at him in astonishment, but he appeared not to see her.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he began talking at once into the mike. Loud speakers commanded instant attention throughout the vast throng. "I may be rushing matters a little, but I sure do want to get in my say right now."

"You all know why we are out here. I'm tickled pink as a posy about the endowment fund, for I'm a rancher myself and I support this school. But as Dr. Palmer said, we have a fiesta next week in Phoenix. Now friends, some of you were pretty het up about selecting the fiesta queen. I guess I am too.

"I want to say, though, that Arizona has a reputation for being friendly and hospitable. We can still hold to that reputation and have the prettiest girl in the United States to lead us in the fiesta fun. Friends, Frontier university was honored this fall when a certain nationally famous girl came out here, and I happen to know she's a wonderful somebody in every way, and I take pride here and now in nominating Miss Joy Boone!"

He might have said more. In fact he did make a few motions before the microphone, as if trying to speak. But nobody would have heard him!

* * *

The throng had gone wild again. At least a part of it. Shadow Canyon is almost half a mile across, but its walls are sheer heights of 1,000 feet or more and the mass shouting echoed back and forth in spectacular manner. Ward's further speech, even through loud speakers, was thoroughly buried in greater sounds.

All at once then the handsome young ranch man was struck by stage fright.

"Good lord!" he murmured, astonished at his own temerity here.

Forgetting his hat which he had dropped onto the floor, he literally ran away from the girl Leona and from the microphone, jumped down off the rostrum, looked wildly right and left once and then started rapidly toward the nearest exit. People hailed him everywhere but he paid no attention. Acute embarrassment had reddened him now.

"Ward! . . . Wait!"

He heard that feminine voice but paid no attention. He walked on, faster. When he had passed through the high side gate, made of natural rock, turned to go between some boulders that lined the sidewalk, he paused a moment to mop his brow. Here he was out of sight of everyone. He wanted a chance to collect his wits. Speaking before masses was foreign to Ward McMurray, however self-confident he was in his usual walks of life. And nominating a girl like Joy Boone was indeed a thing for him to have done!

His privacy lasted only a matter of secons. All at once he heard footsteps — pat-pat-pat-pat in a rapid, feminine staccato—and there stood Joy herself! He faced her, his eyes afire.

"Ward!" she breathed. "You did it! You—nominated me!"

He made no answer.

"Why did you, Ward?"

He blurted it out then. From somewhere away deep inside him. "Because, Joy, I'm crazy in love with you! I can't help it! I had to do that, I had to be the one. Somebody else would have, but I couldn't let them! I—you're famous, and everything. Rich. But I—oh, Joy! I know I shouldn't but I couldn't keep from loving you! All this time!"

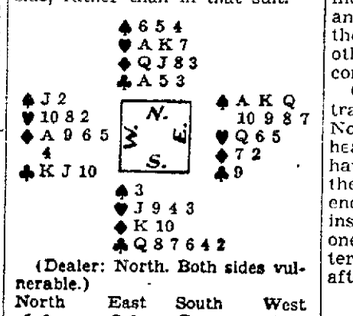
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

HONORS IN SHORT SUITS

High honors are much better contract defeating weapons if they are in short suits. Then there is slight danger of their being ruffed by the opponent playing a suit contract. If they are in long suits, he is much more likely to be short in either his hand or the dummy. Consequently doubling is a sounder venture when your long suit is in a hand whose strength lies mainly on the side, rather than in that suit.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

That ended the bidding at one duplicate table, whereas at another it was doubled by North. He reckoned that he had a goodly chance to beat the contract, bid that funny way, since none of his high honors was in a long suit and he expected to have a good chance to find his partner with a trick of some kind, in view of East's weakness jump.

The double told South he had better make the expected lead of a diamond, his K. The A won that, but the declarer's goose was cooked. After three spades, the club 9 was led to the 10 and A, whereupon North cashed one diamond and then made East ruff another. Finally East had to lead the hearts himself, so that the defenders got three tricks in that suit, setting him two.

Where North did not double, South decided he had better lead something different from his partner's diamond suit, especially in view of that guarded K. So he picked the club 6. The 10 from dummy forced the A, the heart K and A were scored, and the diamond Q was covered by the K and A. This declarer now used the club K for a discard of his other diamond, so he made his contract.

Of course, you will say, the contract could still have been set if North had not laid down those heart honors, as then East would have had to lose three hearts plus the club already gone. True enough, but anyway the club lead, instead of the diamond, was worth one trick to the declarer, no matter what the defenders might do after it.

* * *

Your Week-End Lesson.

When leading the suit bid by your partner, against your right-hand opponent's contract of 3-No Trumps, how do you determine which card of the suit to open? Can you give a full set of examples of the various general types of holdings to illustrate the principles governing such leads?

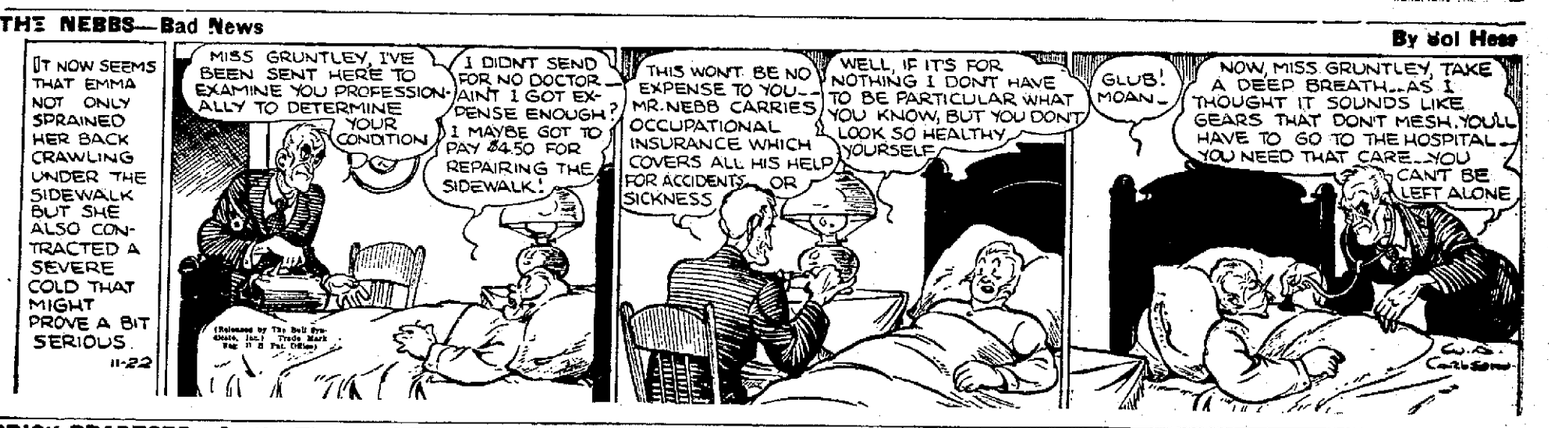
PAM—Yet to Come!

By A. W. Brewerton

DAVID, I'M SO PROUD OF YOU FOR WHAT YOU'VE DONE!
GUESS I WAS JUST LUCKY, HONEY, BUT I'M AWFULLY GLAD IT TURNED OUT AS IT DID
AND, PAM, MR. GRAHAM TOLD ME THAT CAREY GRAHAM'S SWEETHEART, PEGGY, WAS VERY MUCH YOUR TYPE-- COURSE, SHE COULDN'T BE AS SWEET AND BEAUTIFUL AS YOU--
11-22
---BUT THAT'S WHAT DREW THE BOY TO YOU, I'M SURE. YOU REMEMBER HE CALLED YOU PEGGY ONCE---SO YOU SEE YOU PLAYED NO LITTLE PART IN OUR SUCCESS IN HELPING HIM
HE WAS A SWEET BOY--AND IT WAS AN INTERESTING EXPERIENCE.
BUT LITTLE DID PAM DREAM THEN, THAT THE STRANGEST, MOST EXCITING PART OF THAT EXPERIENCE WAS YET TO COME!
AND ON A FAST WEST-BOUND PLANE,
DAD, DOES MOTHER KNOW YOU'VE FOUND ME?
NO, MY BOY. I WAS AFRAID TO SEND HER A SHORT MESSAGE. SUCH WONDERFUL GOOD NEWS MIGHT BE TOO GREAT A SHOCK FOR HER. I MUST BREAK IT TO HER GRADUALLY.

THE NEBBS—Bad News

By Sol Hess



IT NOW SEEMS THAT EMMA NOT ONLY SPRAINED HER BACK CRAWLING UNDER THE SIDEWALK BUT SHE ALSO CONTRACTED A SEVERE COLD THAT MIGHT PROVE A BIT SERIOUS.
11-22
MISS GRUNTLEY, I'VE BEEN SENT HERE TO EXAMINE YOU PROFESSIONALLY TO DETERMINE YOUR CONDITION
I DIDN'T SEND FOR NO DOCTOR-- AIN'T I GOT EXPENSE ENOUGH? I MAYBE GOT TO PAY $4.50 FOR REPAIRING THE SIDEWALK!
THIS WON'T BE NO EXPENSE TO YOU-- MR. NEBB CARRIES OCCUPATIONAL INSURANCE WHICH COVERS ALL HIS HELP FOR ACCIDENTS OR SICKNESS
WELL, IF IT'S FOR NOTHING I DON'T HAVE TO BE PARTICULAR WHAT YOU KNOW, BUT YOU DON'T LOOK SO HEALTHY YOURSELF
GLUB! MOAN-
NOW, MISS GRUNTLEY, TAKE A DEEP BREATH--AS I THOUGHT IT SOUNDS LIKE GEARS THAT DON'T MESH. YOU'LL HAVE TO GO TO THE HOSPITAL-- YOU NEED THAT CARE--YOU CAN'T BE LEFT ALONE

NEED $100? HERE'S WHAT TO DO

Tell us how much you need, $20 to $500; how much you can repay monthly; and answer a few simple questions.

Loans made three ways: (1) on signature, (2) on car, (3) on furniture. No endorsers. Friends or relatives are not told. Fair treatment in case of sickness or unemployment. Payments include charges of 2% monthly on balances of $300 or less and ½% monthly on any remainder—the same rate to everyone. Nothing else to pay. To apply—phone, write or visit office. Money ready next day—or sooner if necessary.

ALMOST A FLOOD

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—(AP)—Rapid growth of this city owing to defense work has called for quick thinking about its water supply. Sandbags have been piled atop the great mountain dams to increase the capacity of the reservoirs behind them. As a result, the city engineer reports them "more than 100 per cent full."

ALL IN THE VIEWPOINT

KINSTON, N. C.—(AP)—A man questioned in superior court about money he lent stoutly denied that his interest rates were high. In fact, he added, "There is no interest rate. We just accept donations."
